Moscow Is Not In Picture

Truman Will go Along With Moves For Peace, But Will Not go to Russia

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)— President Truman said today he will never go to Moscow as long as he is president but will cooperate in any move to preserve the peace.

Mr. Truman told his news conference he is for any plan to utilize the United Nations in preserving the peace.

He did not comment directly, however, on a proposal by Chairman McMahon of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

McMahon called in a Senate speech yesterday for the Western powers to work out a program for peace and then for the U.N. to hold an unprecedented session in Moscow.

Mr. Truman made clear that his cooperation will never involve any trip by him to Moscow as long as he is president.

Might Go Later

But, he said he would like to visit Moscow after he is through being president. Under questioning, he refused to say when that might be.

The President said his offer to hold peace talks in the United States is always open.

A reporter told Mr. Truman that McMahon was "trying to do something through the United Nations"—not independent of it and —the newsmen wondered whether the President objected to that procedure.

Mr. Truman repeated that he is not ever going to Moscow for such a meeting, but said he will object to nothing that will contribute to the peace of the world.

He said he would cooperate with any proposal that might bring about that result.

Defenses in Good Shape

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)— President Truman said today United States defenses are in the best shape they have ever been in peace time.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he is aware of criticism in some quarters that the defense department's economy moves had weakened the nation's defense.

That's not the truth, the President said. He added he didn't think there was a word of truth in it.

As a matter of fact, he went on, the country is in the best situation as to defenses that it has ever been in a period when it was not at war.

Defense economy moves have come under fire from columnists and others, including some members of Congress and some military officers who feel their own branch of the service is being cut too much.

Clinton Eliminates Smith-Cotton 39-28

The Smith-Cotton high school Tigers took a drubbing in the Missouri State basketball tournament this afternoon at the hands of the Clinton high school team. Clinton led the game all the way and won by a score of 39 to 28.

Clinton held a one-point lead at the end of the first quarter 7 to 6, and at the half it was a four point margin of 17 to 13. The steady pullaway continued through the third quarter which ended 33 to 21. In the fourth quarter Clinton added only six points to give them the total of 39 while Smith-Cotton made one more point than their opponents in the quarter to give them a 28 total.

Clinton will play the winner of the Crystal City-Joplin game on Saturday.

Time For City Election is Drawing Near

Julian H. Bagby, Mayor, Will Not Seek Re-election

One of the interesting topics of the day to many persons, is politics, nationally as well as locally. Sedalians are becoming interested in the forthcoming general city election to be held on Tuesday, April 4, 1950.

Mayor Julian H. Bagby, who has been mayor of this city for the past four years, and served as mayor a full term and part of another previously, stated he was not a candidate for re-election.

D. Kelly Scruton, who has been city chairman for the past seven years, said, "I am not a candidate for the chairmanship of the City Democratic committee and under no condition will I accept the office again at this time. I have served in the capacity for the past seven years and two years ago, at the time I was re-elected, I declared that I did not desire to carry on in that office after this term. I personally feel that new blood should be inserted and the head of the City Committee should be passed around, for the betterment of the party." He added, "I will always be active in the affairs of the party regardless in what capacity I might be serving."

Schrader Not a Candidate

Carl G. Schrader, who has been a Republican city and county chairman for many years, said he is not a candidate to succeed himself, as city chairman.

W. C. Askew, Democrat, and Herb E. Studer, Republican, are candidates for the office of mayor of Sedalia, subject to party approval. There has been some talk of A. H. Wilks, former mayor, and Harry E. Lindstrom, Republicans.

Candidates for nomination for chief of police are Edgar Neighbors, present chief, Democrat, and Truman McMillen and Carl Meyer, Republicans.

Paul Alpert is a candidate for nomination for city collector on the Democratic ticket to succeed himself. So far there is no Republican opposition.

H. O. Berry is a candidate for nomination to police judge to succeed himself on the Republican ticket, There is no definite opposition on the Democratic party, but Jerry Trotter, a recent graduate from Central Business College, who is a disabled World War II veteran, might decide to run for the office on the Democratic ticket.

James Durley, a young Democratic lawyer is the only candidate for nomination to the office of city attorney. He is the present city attorney.

Others Talked Of

Rumors have it that Leonard Dickerson, Democrat is seeking the nomination for city assessor. Albert Newman is the Republican candidate for nomination for that office.

Mrs. Rolla Rabourn, Democrat, is a candidate for nomination of treasurer.

It is talked that S. J. Timborious, Jack Allgaier, and Harry Moore might be candidates on the Democratic ticket for councilmen

Somebody in New York is Stealing Trash Baskets

By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)— The great wire basket mystery has New York police running around in circles.

Somebody is stealing wire trash baskets from the streets. Hundreds, in fact—316 in Mid-Manhattan in the past five weeks, or about 10 a day.

Who? how? why?

The police, red-faced and hot under the collar, say it's got them beat.

"No baskets have been recovered to date," admits police department secretary Frank Doyle.

The city, in a burst of tidiness, put out 4,800 shiny new baskets last January 23. They're big—34 inches high. They're heavy—45 pounds. They stand on crowded streets. The cops watch them as if they were filled with emeralds.

Still they disappear.

"I ask myself who would be wanting baskets," says officer Wilfred O'Mahoney, "and I tell myself—hah! Apartment house superintendents.

"So I scout around behind apartment houses and what do I find? Cats. Laundry. Milk bottles. And baskets! But legal, boughten-and-paid-for baskets. Not our baskets. Not hide nor hair of them."

You can get plenty of tips from sidewalk Sherlocks:

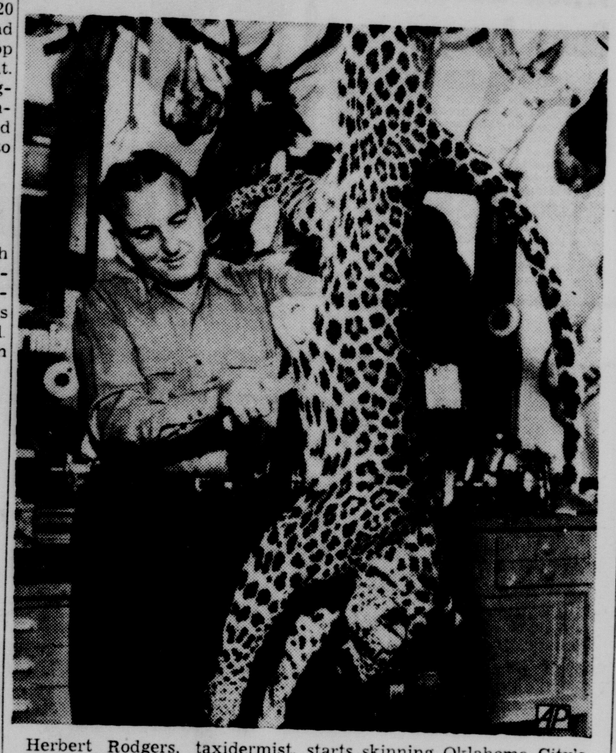

"Out-of-towners take 'em. Use to burn leaves."

But who burns leaves in February or March?

"Bird-fanciers are doing it. The baskets would make wonderful parrot cages."

Hmmm. Three hundred sixteen larcenous parrot-keepers in five weeks?

Winds Whip Wide Areas Over States

By the Associated Press

Blustery, cold March winds whipped across wide areas from the Dakotas into the South Atlantic states today.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., March 2—(AP)—A blizzard hit central New York today, closing at least 50 rural schools.

Winds of 40 miles an hour, carrying snow picked up from the ground and fine falling snow, whipped across the midstate area. The weather bureau said the winds would increase in intensity.

School buses in rural areas were unable to operate because of drifts and poor visibility.

Temperatures were at midwinter levels over the north central region. The mercury plunged to 22 below in Minnesota and the subzero line extended southward into Iowa and Wisconsin. Winds ranged from 20 to 40 miles an hour over the Midwest cold belt.

The cold air, fanned by strong winds, pushed into parts of the south and east and thermometers tumbled to below freezing in the Carolinas, Vigirnia and Tennessee. Some of the cool breezes hit other southern states but readings were above freezing.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said winds would diminish during the day over the frosty midcontinent area but not much relief from the low temperatures was expected until tomorrow.

Fair Weather in West

Generally fair weather was reported over the western part of the country and in most of the Gulf states.

The March cold snap chilled parts of the south. It was a cool 21 at Asheville, N.C.; 20 at Roanoke, Va.; 22 at Nashville, Tenn., 25 at Greensboro, N.C., and 27 at Richmond, Va. The low at Tallahassee, Fla., was 39.

Snow flurries fell throughout the Great Lakes region but some were reported as far south as Knoxville, Tenn., and in parts of northern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania. Light snow fell in New York City early today and the mercury was 21 above.

Other early morning readings included 8 at Buffalo; 66 at Miami; 45 at New Orleans; 55 at Los Angeles; 30 at Salt Lake City and 19 at Boston.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—President Truman said today he still thinks rent controls, now due to expire next June 30, ought to be continued for another year.

That was the only comment he would make at a news conference on moves in Congress to let the controls die.

The Senate appropriations committee voted $2,600,000 for the housing expediter's office last week, but added a "rider" saying the office should wind up its rent control duties by June 30.

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Federal mediators sought to arrange new peace talks today in the threatened telephone strike.

Representatives of the Western Electric Co. and the CIO Communications Workers were invited to an afternoon meeting (2:30 p.m. EST) with conciliation director Cyrus S. Ching and other mediators.

The company, a key unit in the telephone industry, refused last month to send negotiators here to confer with the union.

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—A survey of the House rules committee and House leadership indicated today the Lodge-Gossett bill to abolish the electoral college is dead for this session of Congress.

The bill would submit to the states a proposed constitutional amendment. This, if ratified by 36 states, would discard the present system of giving the winning presidential candidate the entire electoral vote of a state and, instead, split up the electoral vote among the candidates in ratio to their popular vote totals.

It already has passed the Senate and is in the House rules committee. If it clears the rules committee, it must get a two-thirds vote of the House before being submitted to the states.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 2—(AP)—Western reporters were barred today from attending the spy trial of Dutch business man Johannes Louwers and nine Czech co-defendants.

When the reporters arrived at Pankrac state court where Louwers went on trial they were told there were no more tickets left for the proceedings. Announcement of the trials opening was made only last night. The reporter for the official Czech news agency is attending the trial.

First Play by Pettis Players Is Successful

Capacity Crowd at Opti-Mrs. Club Sponsored Showing

The first play to be given by the Pettis Players since its reorganization on October 17, 1949, was an outstanding success.

The play, "The Man Who Came To Dinner," a three act comedy, was presented Wednesday night at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium to an appreciative audience which filled the auditorium to capacity, with many standing.

Sponsoring the play was the Opti-Mrs. Club, which plans to sponsor other plays by the Pettis Players later.

The play was superbly cast with each character looking and acting his or her part from the lead roles to the least parts.

That the acting was near professional was brought out in the fact that a number of people who had seen the stage play by professionals in New York and other cities, believed that the acting was equal and in some cases even surpassed, in their opinion, some of the professionals.

Leading Characters

The lead rolls of the play were taken by Michael J. Bogutski and Mrs. C. W. Stephenson. The supporting cast included Mrs. Ted Gardner, Miss Bettye Ellsworth, Donald Harrison, Miss Gayle Scruton, C. E. Alden, Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Fred Rose, Otis W. Wiley, Ted Gardner, Miss Marilyn Williams, Frank F. Evans, Finney Bryant, Mrs. Ben Klein, "Dusty" Wiley, Scott Webber, Bob Younger and Jack Meyers.

Choir boys appearing in the play were Robert Rialti, James White, Albert Fox, Richard Shoemaker, James Satterwhite, Jerry Fox, Harry Lynn Satterwhite and Donald Hofheins.

Others taking part were Bob Fisher, Dick Riker, Jim Clevenger and Bill Taylor.

Good Makeup Artists

The makeup was very realistic. The makeup artists created old men and women from young men and women and put on natural looking beards, as well as other effective makeup.

Adding to the play, too, was the setting, which included a stairway.

Others Taking Part

Girl Scout assistant ushers were Sandra Ryan, Patricia Keel, Cynthia Mynatt and Patricia Callis.

Doormen were William Ward, George Miller and James Kerrigan.

Directors of the play were Mrs. John Metcalf and Michael J. Bogutski.

The Pettis Players have already received two offers to present the play in other towns and a number of persons from surrounding towns expressed the wish Wednesday night that the play would be given in their towns.

Getting Ready For Election

The board of registrars of the City of Sedalia will hold open its books from 8:00 o'clock in the morning until 8:00 o'clock at night on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 23-24-25 in the police station of the city hall building, at which time those who have, for any cause, failed and neglected to do so, may register so they will be entitled to cast their votes in the general city election to be held within the City of Sedalia on Tuesday, April 4, 1950.

Last spring the total registered, as submitted by registrars of the four wards in Sedalia, was 19,484. The total registered in the three precincts of the first ward was 3,977; three precincts in the second ward 2,354, five precincts in the third ward 6,475 and five precincts in the fourth ward 6,678, making an overall total of 19,484.

Anyone qualified may register at any time during open hours in the office of the city clerk.

Announcement of Some Deadlines

Ben P. Robinson, deputy commissioner for Sedalia, states the deadline for 1949 truck and passenger licenses has been set for March 8.

Highway patrolmen will make arrests on all delinquent truck tabs, as well as all 1949 passenger licenses.

Passengers in Derailed Train Entertained

MASON CITY, Iowa, Mar. 2—(AP)— A young lady with a violin sustained the spirits of 40 chilly passengers last night after their train was derailed when the engine hit a snowbank.

The derailment brought injuries to Engineer Albert H. Guse, 67, of Sanborn, Iowa. It occurred about a mile west of Mason City.

The train involved was the Milwaukee lines "The Sioux" bound from Sioux Falls, S. D. to Chicago.

The accident occurred when the locomotive struck the unexpected drift which had been blown onto the tracks and packed hard by the high winds.

The passengers, none of whom was hurt, remained composed although the zero cold caused discomfort because the heat went off.

There was even an interlude of bright spirits when a young woman passenger removed her violin from its case and played gay tunes. The passengers were transferred to another train an hour and a half later.

State Rests in 'Mercy Death' Murder Trial

Judge Denies Move For Directed Verdict of Acquittal

MANCHESTER, N.H., March 2—(AP)—The state rested at 2 p.m. (EST) today in the Sander "mercy death" murder trial.

The jury retired from the room and chief defense counsel Louis E. Wyman immediately moved for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Judge Harold E. Wescott denied the motion.

Earlier the state's star medical witness testified that he believed Mrs. Abbie Borroto was killed by an air injection in her veins administered by Dr. Sander.

Dr. Milton Helpern, deputy medical examiner of New York City, gave this testimony as the state neared the close of its first degree murder case against the 41-year-old country doctor.

At the end of a long hypothetical question, Dr. Helpern said:

"In my opinion death was caused by an air embolism resulting from the injection of 40 CCS of air."

To End Agony

That is the amount of air the state charges Dr. Sander injected into Mrs. Borroto's arm last Dec. 4 in a gesture of mercy to end the agony of her cancer.

Dr. Helpern said:

"The basis for my opinion is that 40 cubic centimeters of air represents a substantial quantity if injected rapidly and would be carried into the heart and pulmonary artery."

The prosecution medical expert testified that while the autopsy could not disclose presence of air it was "significant in that it didn't reveal any other cause of death, which would have necessarily caused as rapid a death at the time death occurred."

After long cross-examination by defense counsel Helpern completed his testimony at the noon recess. Attorney General William L. Phinney said he might call one more witness before resting the state's case this afternoon.

Miners Found 'Not Guilty' of Civil, Criminal Contempt

Information On Coal Strike Briefly Told

PITTSBURGH, March 2—(AP)— Pennsylvania—the nation's second largest coal producer—today proclaimed "a serious public emergency" in the soft coal strike.

Governor James H. Duff called on all villages, towns and cities to allocate available fuel supplies in the public interest.

He said the state "faces a crisis of disastrous proportions."

Over the nation, chill temperatures added to the economic impact of fuel shortages.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith said today he has received no requests for emergency coal supplies to be made available from surplus at defense installations.

Secretary of Defense Johnson announced the program in Washington yesterday. The governor received telegraphic notification of it from Johnson last night. He got another notice this morning from S. J. Chamberlin, commanding general of the Fifth Army, Chicago.

Under the plan, the governor would certify critical institutional needs to the Army. The institutions receiving Army coal would repay the defense installation which shipped emergency supplies.

Smith said he knew of no emergency situations in Missouri.

PITTSBURGH, March 2—(AP)— Sub-freezing temperatures in part of the nation made the soft coal emergency more acute today.

Unemployment in allied industries is mounting hourly.

More than 200,000 workers now have joined the 372,000 striking United Mine Workers in idleness.

The governor of Massachusetts was given emergency war-time powers.

The Massachusetts state executive council, acting on Governor Paul A. Dever's request, granted him authority to seize and ration soft coal.

DETROIT, March 2—(AP)—"The entire country will be shut down in two weeks," if the coal strike is not ended soon, says Henry Ford II.

The president of the Ford Motor Co. made this prediction today in commenting on the production cutbacks by Pittsburgh steel companies and a threatened industrial gas shortage in Ohio.

"If John L. Lewis wants to put his own prestige above the welfare of the country, we're licked," Ford said. "You can't make a man work if he doesn't want to."

Meanwhile the Ford Motor Co. has turned over to the city of Dearborn, where its parent plant is located, 950 tons of coke and 25,000 tons of hard coal.

The Ford plants are operating five days this week.

No Television For Family on Relief

COLUMBUS, O., March 2—(AP)— If a family can afford a television set, it can not receive poor relief, the county welfare department said today.

Director Robert P. Stith said investigators found some families were using part of their relief allowance to make installment payments on TV sets.

Union Contended It Was Not to Blame For Miners Not Returning to Work

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today the government will appeal from the contempt acquittal of the United Mine Workers.

McGrath made the announcement after a huddle of attorneys at the justice department.

He said the appeal will be taken from the acquittal of the union on the civil contempt charge.

He pointed out that the law does not permit the government to appeal an acquittal in a criminal contempt proceedings.

The appeal will be to the court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—A federal judge today found the United Mine Workers innocent of contempt although the UMW's 372,000 coal miner members are defying a court's back to work order.

The decision left the government without any apparent ready weapon to enforce the court's order or to get the coal production needed to head off a nation-wide industrial break down.

There was new talk in Congress of seizure of the coal mines. The administration was reported to be considering it.

At the Justice Department there was a huddle over the next step.

A possible move would be to seek "stop strike" injunctions in courts throughout the coal fields, seeking action directly against defiant UMW locals.

The case here was against the international union.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech, who heard the case without a jury, announced a verdict of "not guilty" on both the civil and criminal contempt charges.

The judge said that he had considered the government's petition and "found on the record" that the charges of contempt of his Feb. 11 back to work order were not supported.

The union had contended that it was in no way responsible for the refusal of the miners to work. Its defense was that the 372,000 coal diggers had each quit work by individual decision, not by direction of the union and that officers of the union had done all they could to end the strike.

Short Announcement

It took Keech just two minutes to announce his decision.

After offering counsel for both sides an opportunity to be heard and saying that he had "heard none" the judge signaled to the marshal to escort him from the courtroom.

He made his announcement soberly and white-faced.

Keech had prepared a long written opinion, but announced his ruling and did not bother to read the prepared document.

The decision was a stunning surprise to the crowded court room because the union in two previous strike cases has been held guilty and compelled to pay fines aggregating $2,130,000.

Government officials increasingly concerned over the spreading economic effects of the coal production stoppage had placed high hopes on the contempt case as a means of getting the miners back to work.

There are indications the government may now turn to seizure of the mines unless there is a quick contract agreement that gets coal production going again.

President Truman, in response to questions, confirmed at a news conference today that seizure plans have been drawn up. Deprecating their significance, he said plans are always drafted, covering all the president's powers.

But one report was that the plans were completed only yesterday and were designed specifically to deal with the present situation. The Evening Star said the administration plan is to ask Congress for a law permitting seizure if all other efforts to get coal production have failed by early next week.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison told reporters in response to questions that he had no comment on the verdict.

Asked if the government could appeal the decision, he replied: "We think it can be appealed on the civil side." But he would not say whether the government planned such an appeal.

Welly K. Hopkins, union chief counsel, commented:

"A fair and equitable decision."

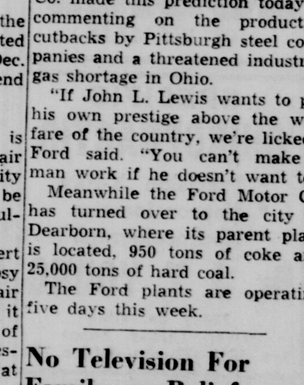

Harvey D. Dow Candidate For Congress; GOP Nomination

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2—(AP)—Harvey D. Dow of Sedalia filed Wednesday for Republican nomination in the sixth congressional district. He is a former member of the state House of Representatives.

O. K. Armstrong of Springfield, another former legislator, also is in the race for the Republican nomination.

Two Democrats have filed in the sixth so far—Rep. George H. Christopher of Amoret, the incumbent, and L. Thomas Dixon of Springfield.

Joseph M. Badgett of St. Louis filed for the Republican nomination for state auditor—the same office he sought unsuccessfully in the 1948 primary. The Democrat incumbent, W. H. Holmes of Vienna, is the only other auditor candidate to date.

Harvey D. Dow

Harvey D. Dow, Sedalia attorney, as a member of the sixty-third general assembly, served on these committees: civil and criminal procedure; municipal corporations and workmen's compensation.

Mr. Dow about four decades ago served as prosecuting attorney for Pettis county and through the many years since he attained manhood had been active in the Republican party in local and state politics.

He is a Spanish-American war veteran and in later wars has given his time and endeavors to participants in World Wars I and II to help them when called on for advice or information that might be to their berefit.

Brain Operation Relieves Pain

TOPEKA, Kas., March 2.—(AP)—A noted psychiatrist said today medical science has a means of relieving hopelessly ill patients of unbearable pain without resorting to so-called mercy killings.

The method, said Dr. Karl Menninger, is a delicate brain operation known as the pre-frontal lobotomy.

"Just now the public is interested in so-called mercy killings," he said in an interview. "This is a mercy operation—not a killing." He added that the operation could be considered only as a last resort and should be used only when all other means of treatment fail.

Dr. Menninger said that in the lobotomy, the doctor takes a small portion of the front lobe of the brain which is a sensative point—a relay—out of the head.

"Pain of any organic disease can be relieved by the lobotomy operation," he said. "But the patient's outlook on life must not be more than six months, althouhg we have many who are living several years after such an operation has been performed."

The psychiatrist pointed out that the operation is not new. He said it had been used at the Winter general veterans hospital here for the last five years. Dr. Menninger is a consulting psychiatrist at the hospital.

Farmers' Cash Fell Sharply

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Farmers' income from marketings fell sharply in all except five states last year, the agriculture department reported today. Cash receipts were up in Florida, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Delaware as compared with 1948.

Missouri and Kansas were among the top ten states last year. Missouri ranked sixth with a total of $944,357,000 against $1,085,717,000 in 1948. Kansas was eighth with $933,576,000 in 1949, compared with $1,130,319,000 the previous year.

Higher prices for citrus fruits pushed Florida farmers' 1949 receipts up 19 per cent, tops for the nation percentagewise.

On the other extreme was North Dakota, with a 32 per cent decline, resulting mostly from smaller marketings and lower prices for wheat and flaxseed.

Texas, with a 10 per cent increase, led in total farm income from marketings. The big southwester nstate overhauled both California and Iowa 1948 leaders, to take the No. 1 spot.

Texxas and California topped the two billion dollar mark in farm income for 1949. Iowa missed it by about six million dollars.

Saves Children From An Apartment Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 2—(AP)—A frantic Oklahoma City mother rushed into her flaming apartment twice Wednesday and carried her two babies to safety as a third child ran out of the building.

Mrs. Mildred Rumsey, 23, was in the yard when she noticed flames shooting from the ground-floor apartment. She ran back, snatched her 8-months-old daughter, Mary Anan, from her flaming bed and carried her to a neighbor's.

The mother returned to the burning bedroom and carried out her son, Kenneth, 2. Another son, Clinton, 5, made his own way to safety.

Her husband was at work.

District Fire Chief W. C. Roach said the blaze started in the baby's bed. He could find no cause for the fire.

The Doctor Answers

By Dr. Jordan

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The stomach is a most important organ and many things can go wrong with it, both real and imaginary. The first two questions in today's batch are typical of those which worry a great many people.

Q—I had a perforation in the stomach, was rushed to the hospital by a police ambulance and operated on immediately. The doctor just had time to repair the perforation. Is the spot where the ulcer was and the perforation just as strong now after the operation as it was before the perforation developed?

J. A. R.

A—When the perforation or hole in your stomach developed, it allowed the contents of the stomach to escape into the abdominal cavity — or would have in a short time. When the surgeon repaired the perforation, he probably cut around the hole and sewed healthy parts of the stomach together again. What else he did depends on where the ulcer was located. The areas sewed together are sometimes more liable to the formation of new ulcers. Except for that slight risk, however, your stomach should be as good as ever.

Q—Is there such a thing as a nervous stomach? If there is what can be done for it? R. A. W.

A—There is no disease called a "nervous stomach." Nevertheless it is well known that the nervous system has a great effect on the actions of the stomach. Some people are so susceptible that they will become nauseated and vomit under conditions of great nervous strain. What one can say then is that the stomach is highly susceptible to excitement, anger and other emotions even though there is no disease which goes under the name of nervous stomach. What can be done for it is another matter. If there is nothing wrong with the stomach itself, a good line of attack might be to lead a calmer life.

Q—Does radium shorten one's life if it has been given for a small growth?

A—Not at all. The purpose of the radium is to treat the growth and to lengthen life rather than to shorten it.

Q—I have been told that I have nicotine poisoning from smoking too much. I have stopped smoking but shouldn't I take some medicine to get rid of the poisoning? E. G.

A—No, nature will take care of getting rid of it for you if you do not add any more to your system.

Q—For over a year now I have had trouble with my tongue burning. What cause this? H. O. S.

A—A burning sensation may occur in the absence of obvious cause, or the cause can be hard to find. Even inflammation may be present but not visible. Rough or unclean teeth and dentures may produce irritation at the tip of the tongue. A low-grade infection can occur without redness but with soreness and burning of mouth surfaces. Smoking, food or drink may irritate the tongue. Things to try include cleaning and smoothing out of the teeth or denture, a decrease in smoking and the use of less irritating food and drink.

Q—I have heard that the absence of half-moons on the nails is a sign of tuberculosis. Is this true? L. R. P.

A—This is not true. However, the nail beds are frequently affected by any general infection, including tuberculosis, and therefore it is possible that they will change in appearance in the presence of that disease.

Highway Post Office Coach Here Tonight

Will be Displayed At Union Bus Station From 4 Until 10

An innovation of the U.S. Mail Highway Post Office is being made by the Springfield - Des Moines Southern Stage Lines this week prior to starting three runs out of Des Moines of this and two other coaches soon. The coach painted in red, white and blue with lettering designating it as a U.S. Mail Highway Post Office, was here Wednesday morning and returns to Sedalia for a showing from 4 o'clock until 10 o'clock this evening. It will be at the Union Bus station, Second street and Lamine avenue.

The coaches are 35 feet long, eight feet wide and has standing height inside of 81 ¾ inches. The interior is exactly like the U.S. Mail cars used on the railroads and have ample room to carry mail. On each side are sliding doors through which the mail is deposited and taken out. It is so built that it will also carry any and all types of mail including the baby chick parcels.

Modern Inside

Everything of modern convenience has been arranged inside for the civil service employees who work the mails. The interior was especially designed by the postal department. A battery of lights in the ceiling provide ample light for the clerks. There is a modern system of ventilation as well as a heating system.

A. B. Fletcher, manager-owner of the stage lines, is traveling with the coach on its tour of inspection. Mr. Fletcher, well known in Sedalia, stated the routes on which the coaches operate furnish mail service to those towns and communities which are losing out in the rail mail service. In other words this new system takes the place of the rail and the star route systems and gives better services to many communities.

Serve More Communities

His three routes which go into operation within a few days was the thirteenth contract let by the Post Office Department and is known as HPO-13-C. Many communities from Springfield to Des Moines have indicated they would like for the system to be used in this area and it is possible applications and petitions will be sent the Post Office Department requesting the Highway Post Office service.

The coach on display here this evening was built by the C. D. Beck Co., of Sidney, Ohio, at a cost of $17,500 of which three were ordered by the Stage Lines Company, all to be used at the present time in Iowa.

Miss Lilian Watkins, home agent, was present and made a brief talk. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Rex Welty, who started the club members on textile printing, a project of the year.

Guests present, were: Mrs. Bennie Clevenger, Mrs. E. C. Vogelbaugh, Miss Lillian Watkins, Miss Erma Whallon, Mrs. Louise Adkins, Mrs. George Gorrell and Mrs. Wayne Stark, the latter two, members of the Van Natta club.

It won't be open season for lawbreakers, however. Sheriff Ray M. Barger extended the hospitality of the Larimer county jail.

Philadelphia Studies Parking

The mayor said the city might construct underground parking sites to relieve traffic tie-ups.

U. S. Needs More Jobs

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The Council of Economic Advisers has just presented a secret, 3-page analysis of the country's economic problems to the President. Here in brief is what Truman's advisers told him:

The major problem facing the country today is the sharp rise in unemployment. In January, unemployment set a record postwar high, with 4½ million out of work—almost a million higher than the previous month. Unemployment is now at 7 per cent of the total labor force, against only a little over 4 per cent one year ago. The increase of a million in the ranks of the unemployed in a 30-day period is considerably more than would normally occur at this time of year.

Partly offsetting the poor unemployment picture is the high level of home construction, business loans and bank clearings. In addition, those people who are still employed have not received any appreciable pay cuts.

In general, the present situation, while warranting the closest study, is not as yet alarming. The basic problem is one of expanding the United States economy fast enough to absorb the ever-increasing number of people available to work. During 1949, for example, the labor force increased by 1,300,000. Today's high level of unemployment is due to the failure of the economy to grow sufficiently during 1949.

The present economic situation calls for action along three major lines: The development of a program to stimulate business investment, planning for large public works expenditures and increased attention to local areas of severe unemployment; continued government spending in order to pour money into the economic stream (defense spending, social security, unemployment compensation, veterans' benefits and so on) and the rapid settlement of the coal strike before coal shortages send a chain reaction of unemployment throughout the nation.

Few economists in Washington go along with the President's advisers when they minimize the economic danger signals. Other economic experts consider the sharp and unexpected increase in jobless to be a serious economic storm signal.

On eof the most tragic aspects of the unemployment picture is that men of 40 and over, with growing families, have been hardest hit.

There is good reason why Guy Gabrielson, the friendly G.O.P. national chairman, is sitting back pleased as punch despite the hullaballoo over the Republican policy statement. In little over six months, the New Jersey man has accomplished the impossible. He has not only pulled the limping G.O.P. out of debt, but has put more than $200,000 in its coffers.

When Gabrielson was elected chairman by the skin of his teeth, the national committee was bankrupt and had bill collectors beating on the door. Gabrielson's job of paying the bills was done with the help of Douglas Stewart, president of Quaker Oats, and former Senator Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts.

Last June, after a huddle of lawyers in Birmingham, Ala., an important income tax fraud case wase sent back to the Justice department in Washington where it was marked "closed," "no prosecution." The case involved Joe Mitchell and Sam Ripps of Mobile, who were alleged to have profited from the sale of jewelry to army post exchanges during the war and then cheated the government out of income taxes.

On December 16, 1949, this column published the story of the Ripps-Mitchell scandal, including the fact that they were defended in Birmingham by Ben Leader, former law partner of John Hill, United States attorney, the man who was supposed to prosecute them. Hill issued a general denial.

However, the Justice department, with some of the new facts disclosed by this column, reopened the Ripps-Mitchell case. And last week, in Mobile, the men were indicted.

See Spud Growers Floundering In Hot Political Potato Soup

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Political potato soup is getting thicker. Illinois Sen. Scott W. Lucas' proposed farm bill amendments to end all government potato price supports until marketing quotas are established has hit commercial potato growers right between the eyes. It even has the Department of Agriculture worried.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has been yelling for Congress to do something about the potato situation. But the fear is now that the Lucas proposal goes too fast and too far.

It would put the government in the position of going back on its announced promises to support the 1950 crop of potatoes at 60 per cent of parity—or an average of $1.01 per bushel.

The Lucas proposal could not affect 1950 potatoes already planted in the Southern states. But it might, of course, deny supports to Northern states where planting comes much later. This would be discrimination which Northern potato growers would naturally resent.

Finally, the Lucas proposal would deny all future price supports unless the commercial potato growers agreed to marketing quotas.

An important distinction here has to be made between what the Department of Agriculture refers to as marketing "agreements" and marketing "quotas." Marketing agreements cover only the grading and sacking of potatoes according to size and quality. About 85 per cent of the 1950 potato crop will be under marketing agreements. Their effect was to have only the top-grade potatoes go to market.

Marketing Quotas Limit Yield

Marketing quotas, however, cover the quantity production of potatoes. In order to beat acreage allotments which the Department of Agriculture imposes as a condition to receiving price supports, potato growers planted their rows closer together and used more fertilizer. Under marketing quotas, they would not be permitted to increase their yields in this way. Growers would have to limit their production to a specified number of bushels of potatoes they would market, in order to be eligible for price supports.

The legal procedure for establishing marketing quotas is closely prescribed. The issue of whether to impose quotas is submitted to commercial potato growers for a vote. Two-thirds of the growers must vote in favor of quotas before they can be put in effect.

Trying to forecast a timetable on how quotas could be imposed on 1950 potatoes shows what kind of trouble the government might be letting itself in for if the Lucas proposals passed Congress. They are now in the form of riders to a bill amending cotton acreage limitations. Assume these amendments could be rushed through Congress by the end of February. It would then take two or three months for the Department of Agriculture to print ballots, distribute them, have the farmers vote by mail and tabulate the results.

It would thus be some time in May before the quotas could be calculated and assigned. By that time nearly all U. S. potatoes are planted. And, of course, there is always the risk that the quotas might be voted down by a third or more of the 20,000 U. S. commercial growers who planted three acres or more in potatoes last year.

Lucas Stirs Political Rumblings

Senator Lucas' interest in pushing through his proposal to end potato price supports unless quotas are imposed is, of course, well intentioned. It is aiming at ending quickly what has become a national scandal on potato price support payments. Illinois is not a major potato producing state. It had only about 1200 acres in commercial potatoes last year—about 1 per cent of the U. S. total.

Illinois corn farmers, however, have a genuine interest in this issue. If the potato price support thing gets any worse, the whole price-support program may be endangered for all other crops.

In view of objections from the National Potato Council—the growers' trade association and Washington lobby—it is possible that the Lucas proposals will be toned down. They might be made to apply to the 1951 crop, for instance. That would mean the government would have to muddle through, somehow, under the present program for 1950, at a loss of $80,000,000 to $100,000,000.

What the Department of Agriculture is really afraid of is that if the potato rules are now changed in the middle of a crop year, it will undermine the farmers' confidence in all other government promises.

The Lucas proposals would, however, take the department off a $100,000,000 hook, and that might be the simplest solution for a sorry mess.

FURTHER SUGGESTIONS OF HOW NOT TO DEAL WITH RESENTMENTS

Yesterday we considered two ways we are not to use in dealing with resentments and hates, namely, suppression and expression. To suppress them means to create a sore boil at the center of our subconscious being. To express them makes us sore boils on the body of our social relationships. Morever, if we give people "a piece of our mind," we shall probably lose our own peace of mind!

(3) Nor is there much use in trying to run away from circumstances which give rise to resentments. A doctor found a patient nervous, unable to sleep, collapsed. He asked if his home relations were adjusted and happy, and was told that they were. Then, as an afterthought, the patient replied that he and his mother-in-law didn't get on. That was the point of conflict. The doctor sent him and his wife off for a vacation, away from the mother-in-law. Good, but not good enough; for while there would be temporary respite and a letting down of tensions, yet they would tighten up again as the prospect loomed up of having to meet the same situation. The remedy was a mere temporizing, for the relief was only temporary.

(4) To try to do as one woman said she did is good, but also not good enough: "When filled with resentments I would go to the piano and bang out my resentments through Mozart's Sonatas, with apologies to Mozart." That would give temporary relief and act as a feeling drainer, but it did not tackle the causes.

(5) Nor will it do to nurse our resentments in our minds. That only makes them worse. They will carry over into the whole of life and spoil it. One woman said that when she entered the quiet time for prayer, the only thing she could do when she became quiet was "to chew on my resentments." The quiet time simply brought to the surface what was a continuous fact—a nursed grievance.

All of these methods are attempts to heal over a boil. And to heal over a boil is a dangerous act—it may drive the poison in. The poison must be drawn up and out.

O my father, I am tempted to do everything about these resentments—everything except the one thing I must do: get them up and out. But I shall resist that temptation and be inexorable with myself. I shall need Thy help, for I cannot get them up alone. The roots have gone deep. Help me. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Attention to Good Posture Should Make You Feel Better

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN. M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Long-continued bad posture may cause real harm to the human body. It produces too much stretching of some muscles and ligaments and too much relaxation of others. It often interferes with the proper free flow of blood.

Shallow breathing comes with poor posture. This will cause a reduced supply of oxygen to the tissues which need them. Bad posture tends to cause drowsiness and sluggishness; the mental attitude may be depressed and slow. Pains in the legs, back or feet and undue fatigue are frequently symptoms of poor posture.

Standing, sitting and lying are the three important postures. Good standing posture does not necessarily mean the position of attention required of military men on parade. As a matter of fact, long-continued standing at attention slows the blood circulation and too much blood gathers in the lower extremities.

Many men, if required to stand at attention long, especially in hot weather, will faint for this reason. Obviously they are not responsible for this fainting which is due to a lack of blood supply in the brain.

In standing the weight may be shifted from one foot to another and from the heel to the toes. The body, which is allowed to make such shifts, becomes less tired and the muscles less tense. The body should be held erect with the knees and feet directed straight ahead. The abdomen should be held flat but not tense.

Chair shape and how one sits in it are important. The trunk and head should be held straight above the seat or tilted a little forward. The height of the chair from the floor ought to correspond to the distance of the legs from the knee to the heel. This, of couse, varies with the size of the individual. The back of the chair should be straight and comfortably fitting. Too low and too soft seats tend to cause poor sitting posture.

Check Your Bed

Many beds are softer than they should be. This causes too much relaxation of some muscles and tenseness of others. Some backaches are produced from too soft beds. When the bed has too much sag a piece of plywood can be placed over the box spring and under the mattress.

Good posture requires proper exercise. Exercise increases the supply of air to the lungs, improves the circulation and favors that feeling of well-being and health, for which everyone ought to strive.

CHICAGO —(AP)— A letter addressed to the Chicago Police Commissioner set forth:

"I do not know how to make out my income tax. I made in 1949 $1,223.19 and $15.20 was withheld out. Would you please figure this out for me?" In reply a clerk told the writer, a woman, that some other public servants would help her if she went down to the post office.

Rough Going, But Still in the Driver's Seat

FINGERPRINTS Don't Lie

By Rupert Hughes Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Azalea Palmer, young, beautiful, platinum haired, finds her father murdered at her home. A short time before her fiance, Paul Moody, a young sculptor, had gone to see the murdered man, Wendell Palmer, because he had opposed Paul's plans to marry Azalea and had prevented Paul from obtaining a commission to sculpture a group of figures for a new building. Nadine Fennell, Azalea's closest friend, has succeeded in quieting the murdered man's daughter and the police have been called.

III

AZALEA PALMER and Nadine Fennell were still numb with shock and dumb for lack of words to fit their horror, when the air was pierced by a wild superhuman banshee wail that seemed almost to express the mad sorrow that death and sudden death and vicious death must uglify the world.

The two girls, shrinking away from the mute victim of crime, were in such torpor that it seemed as if Nadine had no more than left the telephone and taken the shivering Azalea into her strong arms when the radio siren-shriek was broken off, and they heard the sound of footsteps on the outer marble stairway.

Through the open door came two big officers, who strode to the side of the two girls and stopped short as if on the edge of an abyss, as familiar to them as death is to a doctor.

To the questions implied in their eyes, Nadine gave what answers she could. Indicating Azalea, whose head was buried in Nadine's shoulder, she said:

"It's her father. Wendell Palmer."

The two officers exchanged glances and then looked down at the dead with a new respect. Wendell Palmer was a big man. This homicide was a big thing. Dorton saw that the heavy base of the telephone must have been the weapon that crushed the reddened skull. He did not need to ask if either of those frail girls had done the work. Nadine went on:

"This is his daughter, Azalea Palmer. I just brought her home from the tennis tournament. I let her out at her door and drove on. I found her gloves and drove back. She came running down the steps, crying that she had found her father—murdered. I came in with her. I telephoned the police. We haven't touched a thing."

"And a good thing you didn't," said Cloyd Dorton added: "We won't touch nothing neither till the detail from downtown gets here." Cloyd added to that: "Don't you think the little lady had ought to lay down and save her strength? She's got a lot to go through yet."

• • •

BUT at the idea of such idle repose, Azalea rebelled. For all her gentleness of soul, it was her nature to meet her problems standing up and fighting.

Dorton's voice gave a sharp command: "Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone!"

Already a few strangers were drifting in, sightsteers whose curiosity and the sight of the police car at the curb had drawn up the steps to the open door. The officers herded them back to the crowd clotting on the sidewalk, and closed the door.

Then, while Dorton stood guard in the room, Cloyd prowled about the house, the cellars, the upper rooms, the gardens against the remote chance of catching the killer still lurking about.

Nadine had forced Azalea into a big chair and sat on the arm of it, helpless to offer any solace to the softly weeping girl, who was now a complete orphan, with no mother, no father, no brother, or sister, or any kin or kith to share that suffering that was still a secret, not yet the headline mystery of the day which would soon fascinate the whole nation.

The girls kept their eyes averted from the untouchable body on the floor, and hardly noticed the entrance of a big, ugly man in plain clothes whom Dorton greeted with a none too friendly,

"H'lo, Kelso."

• • •

IT was not till long afterward and then by some trick of awakened memory, that Azalea recalled hearing Dorton's voice in a sharp command:

"Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone! My God, ain't you been on the force long enough to know better'n to lay hands on the weapon that prob'ly done the deed? Keep back, I say, or I'll run you in, detective or no detective."

Azalea and Nadine heard the words and saw the man, but paid no further heed.

Meanwhile the police machinery was still at work. The voice that had sent the radio car to the scene, had notified Police Headquarters of Wendell Palmer's name and fate, and address. Instantly a team of two police detectives had dashed to a car and sent it shrieking through the traffic.

• • •

THE medical examiner, who had just come in from the gory street-scene of a car collision, dived back into his sedan and made for the Palmer home.

Since there would doubtless be latent fingerprints to discover and develop, Ray Pinker, the chief of the Crime Laboratory, did not send a man from the R and I (Records and Identifications) Bureau, but chose one of the dozen or so experts in the SID (Scientific Investigation Division).

He detailed James Stivers, who hurried away carrying a field kit the size of a suitcase. In the caravan were also a cameraman and a police stenographer.

As the various cars pierced the thronged streets, through twisting lanes opened by the sirens, a covey of newspaper reporters raced after them.

In less than half an hour, the home that Azalea had found so dreadfully empty was more crowded than it had been when her father and mother had given one of their famous receptions there.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(AP) Foreign News Analyst

Despite the instability of Britain's labor government because of the tiny parliamentary majority it received in the general election, there is no reason to assume that her home affairs or foreign relations are going to pot as a result.

Actually the very uncertainty of tenure may prove to be a blessing in disguise at this precise juncture.

This paradoxical situation is due to the fact that England's critical economic situation, and her vast responsibilities as one of the big three western powers, call for a minimum of political confusion.

There is nothing Britain needs more at this juncture than government on a non-contentious basis.

Bound to Be Another Election

There is a fair chance—though no certainty—that this is what the country will get for a time. Of course, under the circumstances there is bound to be another general election before very long. But the current disposition of the ambitious conservatives under the leadership of Winston Churchill seems to be not to force the issue right now unless the Socialists raise a highly controversial issue. This the Socialists aren't expected to do.

There are two very good reasons why both the government and its opposition aren't anxious for another general election in the near future. One is that a quick election would be terribly disquieting for the country, and the other is that the actual monetary cost of elections is a great drain on party resources.

Burden on Attlee

The burden of avoiding highly controversial measures naturally falls mainly on the shoulders of Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet. On innocuous business, and in matters of high importance for the good of the country, he may expect cooperation from Churchill and the conservative rank and file.

At this juncture one can see four issues which might precipitate a dog fight and another general election, unless Attlee treads most circumspectly. The first one is the King's speech from the throne, which will be delivered March 6. This is a forecast of the government's program. Should this be too socialistic in tone it would be sure to draw heavy fire from the conservatives when it comes up for a vote of approval in parliament.

Then there is the touchy question of frozen wages and dividends. The trade unions are very restive and so, of course, are the folks who are waiting for their dividends.

Another Controversial Matter

A third and highly controversial matter is completion of the nationalization of the country's great steel industry. Parliament already has authorized the nationalization, but an attempt by the government to implement this drastic move would produce a big fight.

And finally in April the national budget will be introduced in commons. At the best this is bound to be full of fireworks because of the country's critical financial position.

Close observers expect Prime Minister Attlee to product an innocuous King's speech. They also look for him to try to keep the boat on a level keel in other important matters at least until that troublesome matter of steel nationalization comes up, which is expected to be some time before October.

No Important Changes

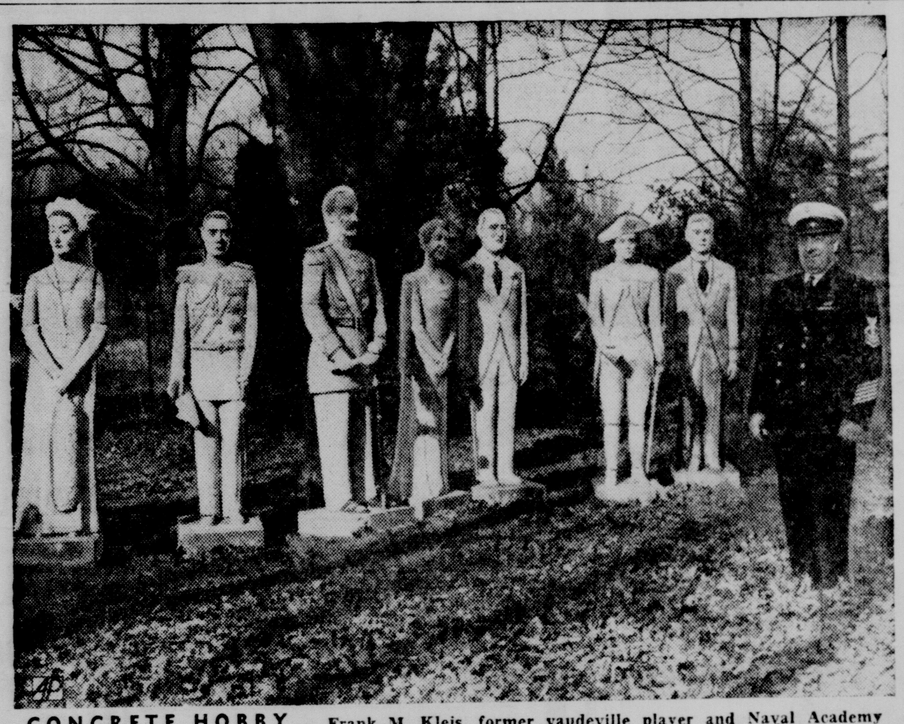

Attlee's reconstructed cabinet shows no important changes. He still has with him such stalwart key men as Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Ernest Bevin, foreign minister. Unfortunately Bevin has been laboring under poor health, but he is a fighter and will keep going as long as he is able. The position as the cabinet goes into action seems aptly summed up by the Manchester (England) Guardian, a Liveral newspaper:

"The desire of the people themselves is for moderation and restraint and the politicians will not go far wrong if they follow that advise. There is much that can be done to improve the country without turning it upside down."

"Nervousness and sleepless nights were my two reasons for switching to POSTUM—and you can tell the world that drinking POSTUM instead of coffee quieted my nerves and made me sleep better, thus improving my general health."

SCIENTIFIC FACTS: Both coffee and tea contain caffein—a drug—a nerves stimulant! So while many people can drink coffee or tea without ill-effect, others suffer nervousness, indigestion, sleepless nights. But POSTUM contains no caffein or other drug—nothing that can possibly cause nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness!

MAKE THIS TEST: Buy INSTANT POSTUM today—drink POSTUM exclusively for 30 days. See if POSTUM doesn't help you, too, to sleep better, feel better, enjoy life more! . . . INSTANT POSTUM—A Vigorous Drink made from Healthful Wheat and Bran. A Product of General Foods.

Hughesville PTA Meeting

The Hughesville P.T.A. met February 22 in the high school auditorium with the group opening the meeting by singing "America."

The business meeting was presided over by the P.T.A. president, Mrs. Edwin Williams. The program featured Founders Day.

Mrs. Floyd Thomason read a short history of P.T.A., followed by a talk of "Young Children" by Miss Margaret Wiseman. Musical numbers by the high school girls' sextet, boys' quartet, girls' quartet and mixed quartets were presented by Mrs. S. Noddy. A reading was given by Bruce Scott.

The meeting closed with the singing of the P.T.A. song. Refreshments of cherry pie and coffee was served.

Because of World War II inflation and war-deferred maintenance programs, many U.S. firms found their financial provisions for depreciation inadequate at the wars' end.

R.A.F. Plans Jungle Rescues

SINGAPORE —(AP)— The Royal Air Force has formed a rescue team which will strike through jungle to rescue crews and passengers of aircraft which crash during anti-terrorist operations.

Members of the first team of 25 are men of R.A.F. ground crews. The task calls for a high degree of physical fitness, determination to overcome obstacles, disregard for discomfort and ability to read maps.

The unit carries weapons for self-defense against terrorists and hatchets to cut their way through jungle. It moves by jeep, abandoning this when necessary, always maintaining contact with headquarters.

Orange Marks Robber

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—"Look for a man spattered with orange juice." That's the advice Hugh Smith, market proprietor, gave officers investigating a robbery at Smith's market.

Smith said the thief got away, but not scot-free, Mrs. Smith chucked an orange at the robber as he fled, scoring a direct hit.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

By William E. McKenney
America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

Penalty cards have long been a bone of contention. The easiest way to get around them is to carefully count your points before melding. Here's what should have happened to one of my readers who didn't:

Q—I had 2 kings and a joker down on the table, but they were penalty cards. On the previous round I had melded 3 kings and a joker, not sufficient for our minimum requirement of 90. I had discarded one of the kings. At his turn my partner melded 90 points, but the next player, my right-hand opponent, went out.

I claimed that as long as my partner had made an initial meld, my joker and 2 kings counted as a meld. The opponents said they counted as if they were in my hand. Was I right?

A—No. Your opponents were right. Penalty cards count the same as if they were in your hand until you either discard them or meld them. If the play had come around to you again, you might have elected to use your joker in some other fashion, and leave the 2 kings as penalty cards. But in any case, until you have a turn to play, they remain penalty cards.

* * *

Q—My friend A. had enough count in his own hand to meld 90, his initial requirement, but he wanted the pack. The up-card was a ten. He put down 2 tens, and took the up-card of the pack, then melded enough cards from his hand to meet the minimum count of 90. Now he took another ten from his hand and added it to the 3 tens already on the board, after which he picked up the pack. Did he have the right to take the pack, since he did not need that up-card to complete his initial meld, having another ten in his hand which would have completed it without the ten on top of the pack?

A—Yes, your friend had a perfect right to take the pack in this situation. The top card of the pack may be used (but no other card of the pack) in counting to the minimum for the initial meld, regardless of whether or not the player would be able to complete his initial meld from his own hand without the up-card.

* * *

Q—When a player discards a card that matches an opponent's meld, does the opponent have to pick up the pack?

A—Only if there are no cards remaining in the stock pile, he may always choose whether to take the pack or draw from the stock pile.

Q—What is the penalty if you are caught with a black trey when someone goes out?

A—There is no penalty except that it counts 5 against you.

* * *

Q—If the last card of the stock pile is a red trey, may I draw it and go out?

A—Yes, if you can meld all of your cards and have completed or can complete a canasta. You may not discard, however, as the red trey counts as your discard.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Lamp Eases Cat's Ninth Life

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(AP)—Snooky, an 18-year-old tomcat belonging to Leo Feldworth, was getting old. Frequent colds marred his enjoyment of life.

Feldworth, an aircraft tool and die worker, decided to do something about it. He built a special bed atop Snooky's favorite snoozing place, the refrigerator. The bed was equipped with a hidden switch. Now whenever Snooky wants to nap—which is most of the time—the pressure of his body on the bed throws the switch, turning on a 100-watt infro-red heat lamp overhead.

The colds are gone and Snooky's happy. Bit Feldworth isn't. Now Snooky won't even come out to eat," he says. "We have to hand food up to him. Breakfast in bed for a cat. $Imagine."

LAST CHANCE—Reminiscent of stateline bargains in cigarets and alcohol is this sign at Little Ferry, N. J., offering next-door New Yorkers their "last chance" to buy pre-colored margarine. A New Yorker is seen stocking up on the product, which cannot be sold legally in New York.

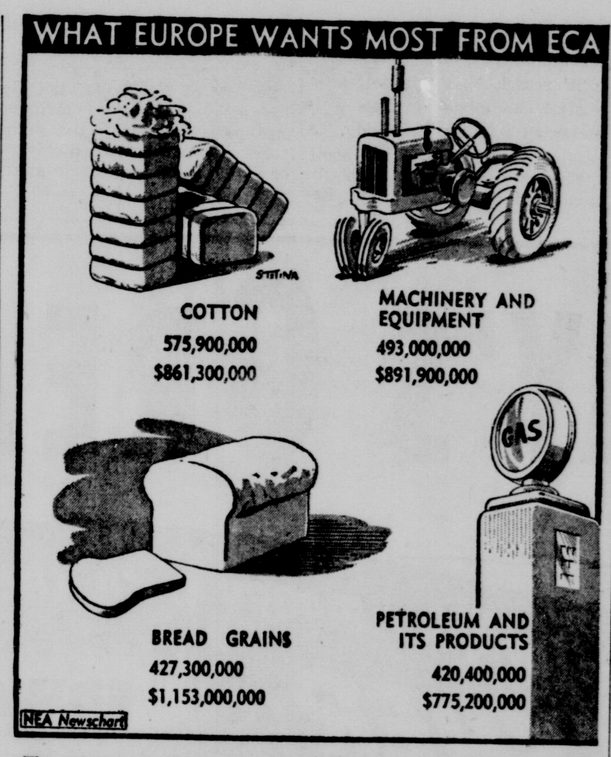

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Luxurious touches of imported lace and hand-embroidery are calculated to point up the sheer beauty of new nylon tricot lingerie. For all their fragile looks, these hand-sewn garments uphold nylon's practical reputation for long wear and easy upkeep.

Lace and nylon combine their charms in the graceful shell pink gown (left) designed by Saab. Fine-patterned lace veiled by nylon forms the bandeau which is outlined by insets of hand-embroidered imported lace. The graceful, flowing skirt falls from a snugly-fitted midriff.

Elegant frosting for the aqua blue slip (right) is provided by garlands of flowers embroidered on the deep net border of the surplice bodice. The wreath motif is repeated on the wide band of net at the hemline.

—EPSIE KINARD,
NEA Fashion Editor.

The newschart above shows the four American products most frequently requested by Marshall Plan countries during 1949. Under each item is given the number of "purchase authorizations" issued by the Economic Cooperation Administration for that product and the total amount of money spent for it. All Marshall Plan products issued by ECA in 1949 totaled $3,977,600,000 in value.

Rotarians Kept Guessing

CHICAGO —(AP)— Members of Rotary Clubs are engaged in a guessing game these days. They're trying to figure out how large the organization will be when they celebrate its 50th birthday anniversary in 1955.

aul Harris and three friends started the club February 23, 1905. They called it Rotary because the early sessions were held in rotation in the offices of members. At latest count, there were 334,000 members and 6,960 clubs in 83 countries.

Alfred Tisch, chairman of Rotary's extension committee, came up with the idea for the guessing game. "We can," he guesses, "have 10,000 clubs and 500,000 members by 1955."

Mink Coat Walks Away

CHICAGO—(AP)—A $2,000 mink coat was draped over a chair in a north side restaurant. It belonged to Mrs. John A. Heinzelman. She and her table companions paid no particular attention to it. But a blonde did. The blonde simply picked it up, walked out and vanished.

1 green pepper, grated
1 onion, sliced
1 stalk celery
1 qt. ham stock
1 bay leaf
4 whole black peppercorns

LIONS INTO LAMBS

COLD WELCOME—New York City gives a cold reception to little Andrzes Wojtkowski, 18-month-old displaced person who arrived from Europe on the SS General McRae. Andrzes looks as if he would be happy to trade the ship's ice and slush for the warmer climate of his destination, Gallatin, Tenn.

Executions Called Humane

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The City Animal Regulation Department has devised what it believes is the most humane method for destroying animals.

Richard L. Bonner, manager, said the system works on the principle that a reduction in air pressure causes a decrease in the amount of oxygen carried in the blood. Without oxygen, he said, there is first a loss of sensation and consciousness and finally the heart stops. The department already has a pressure chamber unit operating.

Bonner said the method stems from altitude tests given pilots. Aviators who underwent pressure chamber tests, he said, described the loss of consciousness when oxygen is reduced as painless.

Gables Win in Bremen

BREMEN, Germany—(AP)—Every once in a while the Germans show signs of rebelling against the bureaucracy that has plagued them since long before Adolf Hitler's days. That makes American occupation officials happy.

A case that encouraged the Americans was Bremen's "battle of the gables." The Bremen Board for Control of Building Affairs decided that new buildings in the business district should not have gabled roofs. A lively public discussion followed, with Bremen's architects, art experts and ordinary citizens protesting.

Carl Ronning, a coffee merchant, defied orders and built a gabled roof. Authorities ordered him to tear it down. That really stirred up public reaction. And the ban on gables was rescinded.

Opens Law Office At 65

CHICAGO—(AP)—Charles L. McCabe has opened a law office—at 65.

McCabe was admitted to the bar in 1923. He was an assistant state's attorney from 1926 to 1929. Then he taught school here for 20 years. After he retired from teaching, he decided to go back into the legal profession.

Mule Team is Make Believe

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., —(AP)—A. J. McKnight, 60, who handles horses and mules for movie studios, has always wanted to drive a 20-mule team. The closest he's come to this ambition was 30 years ago when he enviously watched a team clippety-clop across the wastes of Death Valley. A year ago he settled for the next best thing — make believe.

With clay and wood he settled down to making a scale model of a fully equipped team in action. Now McKnight has a replica authentic down to the last harness buckle.

COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—There came a time when the earth was divided into two hemispheres, the east and the west.

Great was the contention between them and each charged the other with seeking to rule the world. And the hemispheres became armed camps.

There were then 4,000,000,000 people in the world. No man's mouth was free to speak his yearning, and all men bent under the burden of readying their hemisphere against the enemy.

Nine-tenths of every drop of sweat, every yard of cloth, every pound of gold, every ton of steel was spent to "safeguard the peace." This was true everywhere upon the globe. The people groaned in thier tatters, but the engines of war were gleaming and fed.

Island Disappears

It chanced that on a warm and moonless night in April the Island of Bermuda disappeared, with a titanic crash, beneath the surface of the sea. Two passing airliners saw it go down in a dim tower of foam. They radioed an alarm.

Three hours later a 50-square-mile area of forestland in Siberia erupted in broken greenery from the impact of a gigantic force.

The chancellories of the world held hurried conference and then agreed:

"Counterattack!"

And the engines of war were unleashed. Each side sent up huge guided missiles, carrying hydrogen bombs in their warheads. The slender missiles passed in midair over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, leaving a murmurous sigh in their wake.

Where they landed, cities or landscapes disappeared — and so did radio stations and cows, and violins, and old books, and the paintings of Rembrandt and the lives of millions of people.

"Victory or death!" cried the eastern leader.

"Win or perish!" cried the western leader.

Bombs Mushroomed

And the bombs mushroomed by the hundreds, then by the thousands. And great winds arose and carried the dust of death over every land. In six weeks every man, woman and child, every bird, every beast, was gone. The trees gave up their leaves, the moss turned white and no ant crawled.

The last thing on earth to die was a worm four miles south of Oak Ridge, Tenn. It was washed out of the soil by a radio-active rain—and collapsed.

Then the spectral spirits of the earth's 4,000,000,000 people flew in a vast host to the gold bar of Heaven. Through the gates they could see green grass and rainbow flowers. And the gates opened, and the souls of all the slain children skipped into Heaven.

So They Waited

And the parents surged after them, but a mighty voice called:

"Wait." And they waited.

"Why did ye this unto me?" said the voice.

"They started it!" cried the leader of the east.

"No, you started it!" cried the leader of the west.

So the celestial bookkeeper was called and he said:

"On a night in April a small island in the Atlantic was struck by a large meteor. Three hours later — hmm, very unusual — another meteor landed in a Siberian forest. Then everyone on earth just seemed to lose his mind?"

They Were Afraid

"Why?" said the mighty voice.

"Because we were afraid," said the leader of the west.

"Yes, because we were afraid," said the leader of the east.

"Ye were afraid to live — therefore ye died?" said the voice. "Look at the Eden I gave ye!"

The great host turned and looked across the fields of space. They saw the dear familiar earth, the hills of home, spinning in gray ruin under a silent sky.

And as they watched the gates of Heaven closed noiselessly behind them.

Wait to Hear Fuchs Verdict

(NEA Radio-Telephoto)
A crowd stands outside Old Bailey in London as Dr. Klaus Fuchs, Britain's third ranking atomic scientist, pleaded guilty at the opening of his trial to charges of betraying Anglo-American A-bomb secrets to Soviet Russia. The 38-year-old German-born scientist was sentenced to fourteen years in prison.

Lamb-eating Horse Caught in Act

(NEA Telephoto)
Ending the mystery of disappearing lambs belonging to Earl Driscoll at Canby, Ore., this carnivorous horse was caught killing newborn lambs and eating them. Called "Doc," the horse chases the lambs, kills them and eats their entrails for their clabbered milk content.

Auto Life Doubled

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Today's automobile life expectancy has doubled. Today, whether the vehicle is ready to fall apart or is fresh off the assembly line, chances are that it will have more than 12 years of service and 103,000 miles behind it before reaching the junk heap. This compares with an average life span of about six years and 25,750 miles for the car of 1925.

These figures are cited by W. L. Aiken, chief automotive engineer at SKF Industries, Inc: He's already driven his own car more than 200,000 miles—and it's still going strong.

Chiang Back To Presidency

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 2—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek Wednesday returned to the presidency of Nationalist China declaring the Red conquest of the mainland was 'the gravest catastrophe" in 5,000 years of Chinese history.

(In New York, however, acting President Li Tsung-Jen declared he still is President of China and is "making ready" to return and challenge Chiang's right ot the presidency.

(In a statement Li declared that when Chiang resigned he became a private citizen. Li found it "astonishing how at this time he sees fit to make himself president without an election.")

Less than 30,000 square miles of his once vast domain—smaller than any of the provinces of Red China—remain under Chiang's effective control.

Yet, in a short and simple ceremony in the former Japanese governor general's administration building, Chiang announced: "I do not have any doubt that we will recover the mainland."

In resuming the presidency he left just 13 months ago Chiang called his predecessor, acting President Li Tsung-Jen, for aid.

The generalissimo sent Li a telegram in New York, where the vice-president is recovering from a recent operation. It asked him to "please contact American leaders both in and outside the government on my behalf." Chiang apparently still hopes for U. S aid in the battle with the Reds.

Norway To Take Blind DP's

HAMBURG —(AP)— Fifty blind displaced persons in Germany soon will find hope and a new home in Norway. They have been stranded in Germany since the war. Frequent applications for immigration visas to other countries have been rejected.

Then the Norwegian government offered a helping hand. In Norway, the blind DP's will receive vocational training. Then each will be helped to find the job for which he is most suited.

Norway is the first country to offer a home to blind DP's. It is also admittting dependents of the sightless persons.

...you can get twice as much electricity for your money, too!

The little man of the house thinks it's wonderful to get two big scoops of ice cream . . . he knows a bargain when he sees it. The big man of the house is "up" on bargains, too . . . because he gets twice as much electricity for his money than he did even in the good old days. There are two good reasons why you can afford the luxury of an all-electric home. One is that the more electricity you use, the less the unit cost. The other reason is that our rates for all-electric service in the home are the lowest in history.

Pair In Jail After Passing Of Checks Here

Officers Report They Readily Admitted Their Activities

A young couple who claim their home as Salt Lake City, Utah, who said according to local officers had been passing worthless checks from San Diego, California to St. Louis, were arrested about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Zero locker, Main street and Ohio avenue, after passing a check for $20. Both gave statements before Sedalia police and state highway patrol officers as to their activities over a period since February 6 when they left their Salt Lake City home.

The couple identified themselves as Carlos Gerald Hansen 28 and his wife, Genevieve Morgan Hansen, 27, Mrs. Hansen said she is the mother of four children their ages are six, seven, eight and nine. The pair is being held in the Pettis county jail pending further investigation.

It was shortly after 5:30 o'clock when a man hurried into the police station, tapped Officer Cecil Smith on the shoulder and said "there is a couple who appeared to be passing a bad check at the Zero market. "The officer hurried to the place and found the two being detained after having cashed a $20 check and obtained groceries valued at about $6.00. They were taken to police headquarters where, a session of more than four hours lasted in questioning the two, who freely told of their activities since February 6. They also told of a previous husband of the woman who she said was the "cause of all our trouble."

Tell Of Ficitious Names

They told of going to San Diego, California, and of visiting Los Angles, California, returning to their home and then starting east to Blue Springs, Mo., where the four children were said to have been left with a relative of the woman. The couple told of leaving there and going to St. Louis, where they said they tried fifteen or more places before they located a small grocery where a $10 check was cashed.

In a joint signed statement the couple explained they went to a town or city and visited banks, asking tellers for check books and were never questioned. They then told of waiting until after banking hours before trying to cash a check. The same procedure, they said, was used in Sedalia.

The checks in Sedalia were written on the Third National Bank and according to the two fictious names were signed to them. They cashed a $10.00 check at the Howard Gwinn grocery at Ninth street and Engineer avenue, a $20 check at the Safeway store, a $10 check at the Harvey-Jett store on South Ohio avenue, and the check at the Zero market.

Gwinn walked into the Zero locker while the couple was there and he "tipped" the check cashing off to E. Glenn Lewis. Gwinn also identified the couple to the police as having passed a check at his establishment.

After signing a statement they were taken to a restaurant and given their dinner and then placed in the county jail.

Had Check Books

The couple had in their possession a number of check books from the Colorado State Bank, The American National Bank, Mountain State Bank, all in Denver, Colorado; The First National Bank, United Bank and Trust Co., all in St. Louis; The Exchange National Bank of Jefferson City, Citizens National Bank, Bank of America, Security First National Bank, all of Los Angeles, Calif., and the Third National Bank of Sedalia.

Also in their possession were 182 checks written on the above banks and also on the First Security Bank of Utah, Ogden, Utah; The San Diego Trust and Savings Bank and the First National Bank, both of San Diego, Calif., patrolmen said The checks were in denominations of from $75 to $10 each and their total amount was $3,825. These checks were all written out and ready to be passed.

Charges of forgery were filed against the couple this morning before Magistrate W. M. Ilgenfritz.

Pope Pius XII Is 74 Today

VATICAN CITY, March 2—(AP)—Pope Pius XII celebrated two anniversaries today — his 74th birthday and the 11th anniversary of his election to the papal throne.

Fully recovered from a recent attack of influenza, the pontiff planned a routine day with no special celebration. White and golden flags were raised over Vatican buildings in honor of the leader of 400,000,000 Roman Catholics.

The Pope was greeted today by several of his close associates. He then addressed some 300 Lenten season preachers of Rome. Vatican representatives of 50 nations having diplomatic relations with the papal state signed an album of greetings to the pontiff.

Il Quotidiano, official organ of the Italian Catholic action, said the election of the Pope 11 years ago marked the beginning of "one of the most troubled and greatest pontificates in history."

KENOSHA, Wis., March 2.—(AP)—A flash fire wiped out a family of five in a small frame cabin in a trailer camp on the edge of the city early today.

The dead were Carroll Maxwell, about 28; his wife, Betty, 26, and their three children, Jimmy 4, Steve 2, and Patricia, 2 months.

The Maxwell's two-room board cabin was beyond saving by the time the Pleasant Prairie department arrived. The firemen concentrated their efforts in the three below zero cold on keeping the flames from the trailers crowding the camp.

The sheriff's department said all the victims were trapped in their beds, except Maxwell, who apparently tried to get out.

The fire department blamed an oil heater for the blaze.

Smithton Church Entered by Vandals

The Smithton Methodist church was entered sometime Tuesday night by intruders, according to a report made to Sheriff John Taylor, Wednesday afternoon. Reverend Earl F. Dillon, pastor, reported to the sheriff entrance was gained by forcing open a basement window.

It was believed the same party or parties who broke into the Smithton school entered the church. In the church basement the thieves ate some canned fruit that was in the church kitchen.

Rev. Dillon said that apparently nothing was missing and that the vandals just broke in and ate the food and then left by a side door. The discovery of the church break-in was made by the church custodian, Miss Laura Kruse.

It is believed by the authorities investigating the two break-ins that the same party, or parties, are responsible.

Says A-bomb Impractical

ST. LOUIS, March 2—(AP)—Dr. Arthur H. Compton said last night the H-bomb is impractical from a military standpoint "for the simple reason it doesn't do what you want done in war."

The Washington University chancellor and wartime A-bomb scientist declared that it is not the objective of war to destroy a whole population but rather to reduce the enemy's will to resist.

He said the A-bomb could have been made more destructive but wasn't at the request of the military for tactical reasons.

Ready to go to War Time Basis

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Senators learned at a secret session today that emergency plans are ready now for shifting this nation to a war-time basis—including civilian defense against possible atomic bombing.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) said these assurances were given to the senate armed services committee by the top civilian planning agency, the national security resources board.

Presidential assistant John R. Steelman, who also serves as acting chairman of the board, presented a summary of defense and emergency mobilization plans at a closed-door committee session this forenoon.

Tydings said the senate group was pleased with what it learned at the conference but asked the defense leaders to resurvey their plans and see "if any standby legislation should be enacted at this session of congress."

A report on this was asked by April 1.

Tigers in the Quarter-finals Of State Meet

Team is Playing With Clinton This Afternoon

The Smith-Cotton Tiger basketball team and coaches left from the high school this morning to enter the semi-final round at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon with Clinton Cardinals in Columbia, site of the Missouri Class A high school basketball tournament.

The Tigers were shown movies of the basketball game between Kansas State and Missouri and visited various buildings on the Missouri university campus this morning.

Starters

Starting in the second round this afternoon were: Lankenau and Walker, guards; Holst, center; Ruffin and Brown, forwards. The other team members making the trip were McCrary, Morgan, Johnson, Edwards and Shawver. The Tiger coaches are James Ball and Howard Glavin.

All students of Smith-Cotton desiring to see the game were given the afternoon off from the school. Many left around noon for Columbia.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 2—(AP)—St. Louis teams dominated the first round of the Missouri class A high school basketball tournament, earning three places in the quarter finals tonight.

The survivors from the eastern metropolis are McBride and University high, both Catholic schools and Kirkwood of St. Louis county. The only St. Louis victim was Baumont, which bowed to Joplin.

Here's the lineup for the second round of the annual event played at the University of Missouri:

McBride vs. University High.
Kirkwood vs. Hannibal.
Clinton vs. Sedalia.
Crystal City vs. Joplin.

Biggest Trout Was Whopper

R. C. Guinn, Lands 7¾ Pounder At Roaring River

Associated Press Photographer

ROARING RIVER STATE PARK, Mo., March 1—(AP)—By all Missouri standards the biggest trout hooked here on this opening season day was a whopper.

If R. C. Guinn of Carthage, who pulled him in, had waited to tell about the big one without the evidence, the boys would have accused him of taking fishermen's license.

Guinn's beauty, caught on live minnow, stretched the scale pointer down to 7¾ pounds and was 23¼ inches long.

Just to show you how big the trout was the state conservation commission boys at Jefferson City went to their record books. They found that the largest trout reported for the entire year 1949 in the state was a 6¼ pounder. It was hooked at 11 Points River in Oregon county.

Unless someone comes along to catch a bigger one—which is unlikely—Guinn will cop the opening day prizes for the largest fish, the longest fish and the heaviest string of fish.

The jack-pot hitter was just one of some 500 men and women from nine states who came optimistic and stayed that way.

Opening Big Success

After looking over the catches and the smiles of the anglers who lined the mile and half of stream, Superintendent Dick Stamp reported:

"This has been the most successful opening in years."

For the most part the bait fishermen fared better than the devotees of the fly. The latter blamed their luck on their lack of form and snap this early in the season.

The temperatures and the wind might have had something with it too. Although the mercury dipped to 27 at streamside this morning, the day dawned clear. However a stiff wind began blowing in mid-morning.

While the number of limit catches was not reported there were many fishermen who had creeled the limit of six. Throughout the day there was a steady stream of cars through the park.

States represented here included, besides Missouri, Minnesota, Idaho, Iowa, South Dakota, Arkansas, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Umpire Tells Of New Rules In Baseball

Bill Stewart Admits Umpires Make Mistakes

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Bill Stewart has admitted that baseball umpires do make (pardon the expression) mistakes.

The short, chunky National League arbiter might be thrown out of the umpires union for such a remark but evidently he thought it was the better part of valor as he briefed the Philadelphia Phillies on 1950 rules.

Stewart began his talk by saying he was the first to admit that baseball umpires do make mistakes.

Stewart lectured at great length yesterday on the new strike zone, on the balk rule and on the new regulation forbidding a base runner to deliberately crash into an infielder to thwart a double play.

Here's one that all baseball fans should be interested in. Before you boo the ball and strike decisions this season, paste Stewart's statement in your hat:

Erroneously Defined

"The strike zone always has been erroneously defined in the rule book. The rule names the strike boundaries as "between the shoulders and the knees.

"It was never that high," Stewart declared, adding, "the strike always was called from the arm pits to the knees."

Discussing the mixups and flying blocks players use trying to breakup the double play, Stewart said that henceforth the base runner must make a sincere effort to go for the bag and not for the infielder.

Slight Change in Balk Rule

The pitchers' balk rule has been changed slightly.

One section of the balk rule used to read that the pitcher, with men on base, must come to "a complete stop" after taking his stretch. This year the rule is more definite and times the stop at one second.

Another change concerns picking runners off base. If a pitcher steps off the rubber and then makes a wild throw and the ball goes into the stands, a runner gets two bases instead of one. If the pitcher is still in contact with the rubber and has not balked, the runner gets only one base.

The catchers' balk reverts to the old rule again this season. A catcher may stand as far away from the plate as he wants in issuing an intentional walk to a batter. Last year they made the catcher stay within a specific distance of the plate.

Southwest Missouri State Beat Ottawa Braves 58-43

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 2—(AP)—Southwest Missouri State jumped to an early lead and stayed ahead the remainder of the game to beat the Ottawa Braves, 58-43, last night.

Bill Tiegreen, Ottawa center who has better than 18-point-a-game average, was held to nine points.

Springfield was ahead 31-20 at halftime.

Missouri Rabbits To Pennsylvania

The rabbit buying season which began last November came to a successful close Saturday, February 18 for Charley Roberts, of Lincoln, who reports that he bought a total of 9,407 live rabbits during the season.

Mr. Roberts paid forty cents each and bought from trappers over all parts of the country. The two first prizes of seven dollars each offered by David Meyer of the Sedalia Station to the trappers catching the greatest number of rabbits during the season were won by Roy McCubbins of Lincoln, who caught a total of 1,250 and trapping partners, Kenneth Fewell and Calvin Rains of west of Lincoln, who caught a total of 1,561.

The rabbits were placed in large cages and shipped by truck to the state of Pennsylvania where they will be used to re-stock parks and other rabbit depleted areas there. Mr. Roberts plans next season to establish a truck route whereby he will be able to pick up the rabbits direct from the trappers.

'I'm Not Paid To Hit' Says Jim Hegan

Four Out of 71 Catchers Batted .300 or Better

By Ralph Roden

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—Jim Hegan, capable catcher of the Cleveland Indians, said recently, "I'm not paid to hit."

A check of the major league spring rosters shows that Hegan is not the only one. Of the 71 catchers listed by the 16 clubs only four who participated in 100 or more games batted .300 or better in 1949.

The top batting performance was turned in by Carl Swatski, husky rookie of the Chicago Cubs. Swatski pounded Southern Association pitching at a .360 gait while belting 45 home runs and driving home 153 runs in 128 games.

Compiles .322 Average

Harold Keller, young brother of Detroit's Charley, brings a .322 batting mark to the camp of the Washington Senators. Keller compiled that average in 125 games for the Hagerstown Interstate League Owls.

The remaining .300 plus hitting catcher is Ray Murray, an aspirant for a berth on the Cleveland Indians. Murray banged away at a .319 pace in 123 games for Oklahoma of the Texas League.

Hegan, who played in more games than any other major league catcher last year, 152, batted only .224. Brooklyn's Roy Campanella had the best batting mark among major league backstops who played in 100 or more games, .287.

Here's how some of the regulars did at the plate last year. Bob Swift, Tigers, .236 in 74 games; Del Rice, Cardinals, .236 in 92 games; Clyde McCullough, Pirates, .237 in 91 games; Joe Tipton, Athletics, .204 in 67 games; Andy Seminick, Phils, .243 in 109 and Ray Mueller, Reds-Giants, .243 in 88.

Texans Dominate

ORMAND BEACH, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Only eight players remained in the championship flight of the South Atlantic Women's Golf Tournament today and half of them were Texans.

Leading the quarterfinalists in play over the Ormond Beach Country club course was Betsy Rawls, 21-year-old University of Texas coed who was medalist in Tuesday's qualifying round.

Briefs on Big League Training

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel said today only four men have regular jobs "sewed up" with the world champion New York Yankees.

He listed them as outfielder Joe Dimaggio, outfielder-first baseman Tommy Henrich, catcher Yogi Berra and shortstop Phil Rizzuto.

Brooklyn Dodgers

VERO BEACH, Fla., — Two things heartened flu-weakened manager Burt Shotton today as his Brooklyn Dodgers swung into the second day of spring training.

One was the spry deportment of key shortstop, Peewee Reese, who underwent a hernia operation in the winter. The other was the streamlining of pitcher Don Newcombe, who reported he lost seven pounds in yesterday's workout, and catcher Roy Campanella, who dropped five.

New York Giants

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Manager Leo Durocher has tagged right-hander Sheldon Jones for an exclusive starting role this year and picked him for 20 pitching victories.

"With any kind of luck Jones should win 20 games," the New York Giants skipper said.

Jones, who started and relieved both last season, won 15 and lost 12.

Boston Braves

BRADENTON, Fla. — Pennant stock of the Boston Braves jumped considerably today after it became known first baseman Earl Torgeson would be able to throw properly. Torgy suffered a shoulder separation last May. "He threw well enough to satisfy me," said manager Billy Southworth of Torgy. "Sure, he threw sidearm. But he always did."

Boston Red Sox

SARASOTA, Fla. —Billy Goodman, courageous young first baseman of Boston Red Soxx, still has a few spots of fungus infection on his hands. The slight, peppery youngster, was hampered last season by losing weight and spread of the Pacific jungle rot contracted during his war service. The Sox named Steve O'Neil yesterday as coach to succeed the late Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler.

Detroit Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. — Manager Red Rolfe is following the same spring training policy with the Detroit Tigers that he did last season. He demands hustle and lots of it.

A midnight curfew went into effect immediately. Golf will be banned after March 11.

St. Louis Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — St. Louis Cardinal trainer Buck Weaver has a patient in his clinic after just one day of exercise.

The patient is Ted Wilks, the Redbirds' ace relief hurler. His right heel was sore from a spur that cropped up last season. Weaver rigged up a special shoe pad in an effort to lessen the shock around the heel. The heel pains Wilks both while pitching and running.

St. Louis Browns

BURBANK, Calif. — The St. Louis Browns' psychologist scheduled his first class for today.

Dr. David Tracy, who watched the Browns work out yesterday will hold class in the hotel for part of the team today while Manager Zack Taylor is working with the rest of the players on the field.

Taylor commented: "I know that Dr. Tracy will do all that he can to give the boys the confidence they may need."

Philadelphia Athletics

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.,—A 30-year-old rookie may be the answer to Connie Mack's search for a far-hitting outfielder for his Athletics.

Ben Guintini, who socked 32 home runs for Dallas of the Texas league last year, cannonaded three 350-foot drives over the left field fence and caromed another high off the centerfield wall, nearly 400 feet from home plate, in the opening drill yesterday.

Philadelphia Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Manager Eddie Sawyer said today the first spring training drills convinced him that the Philadelphia Phillies are in condition to a man.

Sawyer said he was especially pleased with the form displayed by his pitching staff — in particular rookie hurler Milo Candini.

Pittsburgh Pirates

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — Heavy workouts were ordered today for three Pittsburgh Pirates pitchers who picked up too many pounds during the winter.

Bill Werle, Jim Walsh and Frank Papish will take more than their usual turns in chasing fly balls to get in form.

Chicago White Sox

PASADENA, Calif. — The Chicago White Sox are past the first training camp hurdle — the weigh-in — and not a single player flunked his test.

Outfielder Gus Zernial was the only 200 pounder at yesterday's opening session. Sixteen players surprised manager Jack Onslow—they reported under their normal playing weight.

Chicago Cubs

AVALON, Calif. — Manager Frankie Frisch is so elated with the first showing of his Chicago Cubs he has called a camp game Sunday.

Washington Senators

ORLANDO, Fla. — The Washington Senators, who moved their spring training this year from bumpy Tinker field to the smoother turf of the Tangerine bowl football stadium, are moving back to Tinker today. The reason: High winds.

"At least at Tinker field there are fences to keep out most of the blow," said Manager Bucky Harris. "This way, we might just as well stay in the hotel."

Cleveland Indians

TUCSON, Ariz. — The Cleveland Indians — with only one day of spring training — are three days ahead of schedule, according to the figuring of manager Lou Boudreau. Usually the first three or four days are devoted to running and pepper games, but this year the squad looked in such good condition that Boudreau held batting practice the first day. "As a result, we are about three days ahead of schedule," Lou concluded.

Cincinnati Reds

TAMPA, Fla. — Big Ted Kluszewski — of all people — was tabbed today as a Cincinnati Red holdout, after the first day of spring practice. Kluszewski, the Reds' regular first baseman last year, has been doped to have some rough competition this year Joe Adcock even to hold his job. When Ted didn't show up Manager Luke Sewell declared "Kluszewski is our only holdout." Infielder Jimmy Bloodworth hasn't signed his 1950 contract, but Sewell called him a "hold-on." Bloodworth needs only 90 days to become a 10-year man in the majors.

The average salary for public school teachers in the U. S. for 1949-50 was estimated by the National Education Association at $2,985.

Harvesters Win Over Stover

The Sedalia Harvesters, sponsored by Harvey Bros. Implement company were victorious in their first round of the Syracuse town-team tournament Wednesday night. They defeated Stover 59-51, in a fast but well played game. The Harvesters led throughout the game but were never able to get a good safe lead. The Harvesters led at the half by the score of 23-18. Martine was Stover's "ace" with 22 points before fouling out in the final two minutes of play. Berry was close behind in the scoring department for the Harvesters with 21 points. The Harvesters counted with eleven free tosses to Stovers five. This boosts the Harvesters record to 12 wins against 3 losses.

Other games of the evening found Versailles coming out on top of Barnett, Otterville triumphed over Clarksburg, and Green Ridge downed Syracuse.

In the Hughesville-Appleton City tilt, Hughesville trailed at half time 13 to 8, which was the lowest half time scores the cagers have chalked up all season.

After trailing most of the game, the Wildcats came alive with three minutes left to play and forged ahead to win by seven points.

High point man for Hughesville was Das Conway with 18 points, while Meyers counted with 8 points for Appleton City.

Hughesville was hampered by the absence in the lineup of Janney, fast passing forward, who was out due to illness.

The victory brought the Hughesville record up to 27 victories in 29 starts. The team meets Windsor tonight at 7:00 o'clock.

By Glenn Myatt
Former Cleveland Catcher

It was with Cleveland that I pulled my biggest boner.

I remember it well because the great George Sisler was the runner who scored as a result.

We were battling the Browns in St. Louis when this happened and they were no pushovers in those days.

They had the bases full and none out or one out. Anyhow, a double play was what we were looking for.

A right hand batter was up and he whacked a hard grounder right down the first base line that George Burns fielded.

Naturally, the runner crossed over in front of me, heading for first base.

I got ready to take Burns' throw and to return it to him for the double play.

The throw came, and, boy, I got rid of it — right back to Burns. We had that double play, cut and dried.

But Burns took my throw running toward me and raising the devil.

"You so-and-so, you so-and-so, why didn't you tag him?" he yelled.

What had happened was that Burns had fielded the ball quickly and stepped on first base. I guess the runner was in front of me, and I didn't see it. When he got the runner out at first, the force play at the plate wasn't any force play at all.

I would have had to tag Sisler, coming from third, to get him out.

I didn't.

George Sisler scored and the Indians were beaten because of my biggest baseball boner.

Roundup of College Basketball

LaSalle Was Named to The Invitation

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—LaSalle, ranked ninth in the latest Associated Press college basketball national poll, yesterday was named to the National Invitation tourney. The Explorers celebrated by promptly bowling over Gettysburg, 61-50, for their 19th victory in 22 games.

LaSalle joins Bradley, Duquesne and St. Johns of Brooklyn in the NIT. Eight teams are still to be selected.

Syracuse strengthened its claim for a bid to the NCAA tourney by swamping Temple, 105-76.

Syracuse may get the district two NCAA bid since Cornell walloped Canisius, 65-43, and Villanova, although whipping Toledo, 82-62, is ineligible to compete because of non-compliance with the sanity code.

Tosses in 33 Points

Villanova's Paul Arizin tossed in 33 points to boost his season total to 649 points.

Columbia kept alive its hopes for the eastern "Ivy" league title by beating Pennsylvania, 50-47.

In other games the Oklahoma Aggies trimmed Oklahoma, 48-37; Fordham licked Yale, 72-53, and West Texas upset Arizona, 61-42.

Bradley officials, meantime, protested to the Missouri Valley conference the action of the district five NCAA selection committee in naming the Big Seven winner as the NCAA representative.

For the last several years the Missouri Valley and the Big Seven champions have met in a playoff for the district five bid. At a mass meeting last night Bradley students hanged Bruce Drake, chairman of the district five selection committee, in effigy.

David Hale, 602 West Sixth street, driver of a 1940 Plymouth sedan, also in the accident, was dismissed by Judge Harry O. Berry.

According to the police court testimony, Williams was pulling from the curb and headed east on Fifth street, and Hale was driving east on the street when the mishap occurred.

No injuries were involved.

TRADE BOARD HEAD—Carl Bostrom (above), 49, who started his business career as a $7 a week messenger at 14, is the new president of the Chicago Board of Trade.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

ASSEMBLY LINE techniques, of which Henry Ford was the outstanding pioneer, gave American mass production tremendous impetus in the first half of the Twentieth Century. High-speed, assembly-line production was applied not only to autos, but to almost every line of industry. America's general prosperity and high standards of living, most people will tell you, are based on American mechanical "know-how" applied to mass production by means of labor-saving machinery. Much of our food, our kitchenware, our Bibles, our furniture, our vitamins and sometimes even our houses are turned out on the assembly line. Foreigners from all over the world journey to this mecca of industrial civilization to marvel at how it's done and to pick up a little of the "know-how."

During 1949, the Red Cross gave assistance to 228,515 persons in 330 disaster relief operations across the country.

Curb "Market" Gets Jobs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. —(AP)— There is an unusual "curb market" here—for humans. No one seems to know how it got started but each morning, at one street corner, a large number of workmen assemble, carrying their lunch boxes. They seem all ready for a day's work, but they just stand, waiting.

Then a truck will pull up, the driver will shout a couple words and a number, and some of the waiting men will scramble aboard the vehicle. This is repeated by other trucks until perhaps a major portion of the men is gone. The corner is the market for a fair amount of Jacksonville's unskilled labor.

If construction business is not so good, there may be few trucks of a morning. The men usually hang around the corner until about midmorning. If no job shows up, they go home.

The Barbary pirates of North Africa lived by plunder and tribute for almost two centuries, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Fighting Men Deserting Ho

Declared Quitting The Communist Led Forces

(Editor's Note: The following interview with Bao Dai, ruler of French-sponsored Vietnam, was obtained by Seymour Topping, Associated Press correspondent who is now in the Indo-China area. It is the first given by Bao Dai to an American newspaperman since Vietnam came officially into being late in January.)

By Seymour Topping

DALAT, Indochina, March 2—(AP)—Former Emperor Bao Dai declared today that Nationalist elements both civilian and military are deserting Communist-led Vietminh forces to rally in support of his new French-sponsored state of Vietnam.

He said in an interview that fighting groups under the Moscow-trained Ho Chi-Minh are transferring their allegiance in increasing numbers to Vietnam and charged Ho's rebel regime with employing harsh tactics to curb these desertions. Bao Dai gave no estimate of the number of peasants and fighters going over to his side.

Bao Dai viewed this as a "healthy reaction" that "clearly shows the real feeling of the Vietnamese people toward foreign inspired ideologies that deny the traditional values."

Bao Dai heads the French-sponsored regime that covers 40 per cent of Indochina in a merger of Tonkin, Annam and Cochin China. This is 123,979 of Indo-China's 286,000 square miles and is occupied by about 21,000,000 people. The other states outside Vietnam are Camodia and Laos.

Ho heads a rebel regime which has been fighting the French in Indo-China since the end of the war in the Pacific. Location of his headquarters is a secret.

The United States and Britain have recognized Bao Dai's regime. The Soviet Union has extended recognition to Ho, as have other of Russia's satellites.

Asked about agreement with Ho, Bao Dai said "no one is excluded and all are welcome."

He said collaboration of all groups is desired to build up an independent Vietnam. He added that the military campaign would go on until security is restored. He refused to recognize any state of actual civil war within Vietnam, saying his forces are fighting "only against terrorism and banditry."

Bao Dai welcomed American economic and military aid and said such a program should be as efficient as possible and compatible with Vietnamese sovereignty.

Long Wait For Trucks at Coal Mine

(NEA Telephoto)

As the coal situation becomes more critical, the line of trucks waiting at the Perry Coal Co. mine in Somerset, Ohio, one of the few in operation in the area, steadily becomes longer. More than 400 trucks from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan have reported at the same time at the mine after being issued sequence tickets.

Call For Files In Loyalty Check

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Senate investigators asked three government agencies Wednesday for "complete files" on Michael J. Lee, a Commerce department official whose loyalty has been questioned by Senator Malone (R-Nev).

They said the records are needed to determine whether a further investigation should be held on Malone's charges that the 43-year-old Lee, who was born in Manchuria of Russian parents:

1. Used his influence as director of the Commerce department's office of Far Eastern trade to delay shipments of aviation gasoline and other war supplies to Nationalist forces in China until they were driven out by the Communists.

2. Was rejected for U. S. citizenship three times before marrying an American-born woman and changing his name from Ephraim Zinovi Liberman.

3. Was refused commissions as an officer by both the Army and Navy prior to being placed in key war agency posts by Henry A. Wallace.

Senator Hunt (D-Wyo), chairman of the Senate Commerce subcommittee looking into the Lee case, said requests for the files were sent to the commerce, justice and defense departments.

He told reporters he expected no difficulty in obtaining Lee's records despite President Truman's previous order to bar congressional committees access to the loyalty files.

The commerce department already has said Malone's charges are old and that Lee had been cleared by a loyalty board there.

Court Recesses Due To A Fire

WEST PLAINS, Mo., March 2—(AP)—Judge Randolph Weber recessed a grand larceny trial on Wetdnesday afternoon because defense attorney H. D. Green had other more important business.

Green was informed his house was on fire and he ran out of the court room.

The trial opened earlier that day for Harry McGoldrick, former deputy county collector, who is charged with embezzlement and grand larceny while serving Howell county.

O. R. Amos, assistant cashier of West Plains bank, testified for the prosecution that on Jan. 13, 1949, McGoldrick brought to the bank a check for $3,,620.

McGoldrick deposited $1,870 to the county road fund, Amos said, and took the remaining $1,750 away in $100 and $50 bills.

The defendant's brother, Paul McGoldrick, was convicted and sentenced to serve two years on similar charges of embezzeling from Howell county. He was a former county collector.

Moscow Is Not In Picture

Truman Will go Along With Moves For Peace, But Will Not go to Russia

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)— President Truman said today he will never go to Moscow as long as he is president but will cooperate in any move to preserve the peace.

Mr. Truman told his news conference he is for any plan to utilize the United Nations in preserving the peace.

He did not comment directly, however, on a proposal by Chairman McMahon of the joint congressional atomic energy committee.

McMahon called in a Senate speech yesterday for the Western powers to work out a program for peace and then for the U.N. to hold an unprecedented session in Moscow.

Mr. Truman made clear that his cooperation will never involve any trip by him to Moscow as long as he is president.

Might Go Later

But, he said he would like to visit Moscow after he is through being president. Under questioning, he refused to say when that might be.

The President said his offer to hold peace talks in the United States is always open.

A reporter told Mr. Truman that McMahon was "trying to do something through the United Nations"—not independent of it and—the newsmen wondered whether the President objected to that procedure.

Mr. Truman repeated that he is not ever going to Moscow for such a meeting, but said he will object to nothing that will contribute to the peace of the world.

He said he would cooperate with any proposal that might bring about that result.

Defenses in Good Shape

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)— President Truman said today United States defenses are in the best shape they have ever been in peace time.

Mr. Truman told a news conference he is aware of criticism in some quarters that the defense department's economy moves had weakened the nation's defense.

That's not the truth, the President said. He added he didn't think there was a word of truth in it.

As a matter of fact, he went on, the country is in the best situation as to defenses that it has ever been in a period when it was not at war.

Defense economy moves have come under fire from columnists and others, including some members of Congress and some military officers who feel their own branch of the service is being cut too much.

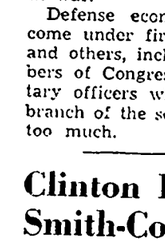

Clinton Eliminates Smith-Cotton 39-28

The Smith-Cotton high school Tigers took a drubbing in the Missouri State basketball tournament this afternoon at the hands of the Clinton high school team. Clinton led the game all the way and won by a score of 39 to 28.

Clinton held a one-point lead at the end of the first quarter 7 to 6, and at the half it was a four point margin of 17 to 13. The steady pullaway continued through the third quarter which ended 33 to 21. In the fourth quarter Clinton added only six points to give them the total of 39 while Smith-Cotton made one more point than their opponents in the quarter to give them a 28 total.

Clinton will play the winner of the Crystal City-Joplin game on Saturday.

Julian H. Bagby, Mayor, Will Not Seek Re-election

One of the interesting topics of the day to many persons, is politics, nationally as well as locally. Sedalians are becoming interested in the forthcoming general city election to be held on Tuesday, April 4, 1950.

Mayor Julian H. Bagby, who has been mayor of this city for the past four years, and served as mayor a full term and part of another previously, stated he was not a candidate for re-election.

D. Kelly Scruton, who has been city chairman for the past seven years, said, "I am not a candidate for the chairmanship of the City Democratic committee and under no condition will I accept the office again at this time. I have served in the capacity for the past seven years and two years ago, at the time I was re-elected, I declared that I did not desire to carry on in that office after this term. I personally feel that new blood should be inserted and the head of the City Committee should be passed around, for the betterment of the party." He added, "I will always be active in the affairs of the party regardless in what capacity I might be serving."

Schrader Not a Candidate

Carl G. Schrader, who has been a Republican city and county chairman for many years, said he is not a candidate to succeed himself, as city chairman.

W. C. Askew, Democrat, and Herb E. Studer, Republican, are candidates for the office of mayor of Sedalia, subject to party approval. There has been some talk of A. H. Wilks, former mayor, and Harry E. Lindstrom, Republicans.

Candidates for nomination for chief of police are Edgar Neighbors, present chief, Democrat, and Truman McMillen and Carl Meyer, Republicans.

Paul Alpert is a candidate for nomination for city collector on the Democratic ticket to succeed himself. So far there is no Republican opposition.

H. O. Berry is a candidate for nomination to police judge to succeed himself on the Republican ticket, There is no definite opposition on the Democratic party, but Jerry Trotter, a recent graduate from Central Business College, who is a disabled World War II veteran, might decide to run for the office on the Democratic ticket.

James Durley, a young Democratic lawyer is the only candidate for nomination to the office of city attorney. He is the present city attorney.

Others Talked Of

Rumors have it that Leonard Dickerson, Democrat is seeking the nomination for city assessor. Albert Newman is the Republican candidate for nomination for that office.

Mrs. Rolla Rabourn, Democrat, is a candidate for nomination of treasurer.

It is talked that S. J. Timborious, Jack Allgaier, and Harry Moore might be candidates on the Democratic ticket for councilmen

Somebody in New York is Stealing Trash Baskets

By Ed Creagh

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—The great wire basket mystery has New York police running around in circles.

Somebody is stealing wire trash baskets from the streets. Hundreds, in fact—316 in Mid-Manhattan in the past five weeks, or about 10 a day.

Who? how? why?

The police, red-faced and hot under the collar, say it's got them beat.

"No baskets have been recovered to date," admits police department secretary Frank Doyle.

The city, in a burst of tidiness, put out 4,800 shiny new baskets last January 23. They're big—34 inches high. They're heavy—45 pounds. They stand on crowded streets. The cops watch them as if they were filled with emeralds.

Still they disappear.

"I ask myself who would be wanting baskets," says officer Wilfred O'Mahoney, "and I tell myself—hah! Apartment house superintendents.

"So I scout around behind apartment houses and what do I find? Cats. Laundry. Milk bottles. And baskets! But legal, boughten-and-paid-for baskets. Not our baskets. Not hide nor hair of them."

You can get plenty of tips from sidewalk Sherlocks:

"Out-of-towners take 'em. Use to burn leaves."

But who burns leaves in February or March?

"Bird-fanciers are doing it. The baskets would make wonderful parrot cages."

Hmmm. Three hundred sixteen larcenous parrot-keepers in five weeks?

Winds Whip Wide Areas Over States

By the Associated Press

Blustery, cold March winds whipped across wide areas from the Dakotas into the South Atlantic states today.

SYRACUSE, N.Y., March 2—(AP)—A blizzard hit central New York today, closing at least 50 rural schools.

Winds of 40 miles an hour, carrying snow picked up from the ground and fine falling snow, whipped across the mid-state area. The weather bureau said the winds would increase in intensity.

School buses in rural areas were unable to operate because of drifts and poor visibility.

Temperatures were at mid-winter levels over the north central region. The mercury plunged to 22 below in Minnesota and the subzero line extended southward into Iowa and Wisconsin. Winds ranged from 20 to 40 miles an hour over the Midwest cold belt.

The cold air, fanned by strong winds, pushed into parts of the south and east and thermometers tumbled to below freezing in the Carolinas, Vigirnia and Tennessee. Some of the cool breezes hit other southern states but readings were above freezing.

The U.S. Weather Bureau said winds would diminish during the day over the frosty midcontinent area but not much relief from the low temperatures was expected until tomorrow.

Fair Weather in West

Generally fair weather was reported over the western part of the country and in most of the Gulf states.

The March cold snap chilled parts of the south. It was a cool 21 at Asheville, N.C.; 20 at Roanoke, Va.; 22 at Nashville, Tenn., 25 at Greensboro, N.C., and 27 at Richmond, Va. The low at Tallahassee, Fla., was 39.

Snow flurries fell throughout the Great Lakes region but some were reported as far south as Knoxville, Tenn., and in parts of northern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania. Light snow fell in New York City early today and the mercury was 21 above.

Other early morning readings included 8 at Buffalo; 66 at Miami; 45 at New Orleans; 55 at Los Angeles; 30 at Salt Lake City and 19 at Boston.

Important Events In World News

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—President Truman said today he still thinks rent controls, now due to expire next June 30, ought to be continued for another year.

That was the only comment he would make at a news conference on moves in Congress to let the controls die.

The Senate appropriations committee voted $2,600,000 for the housing expediter's office last week, but added a "rider" saying the office should wind up its rent control duties by June 30.

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Federal mediators sought to arrange new peace talks today in the threatened telephone strike.

Representatives of the Western Electric Co. and the CIO Communications Workers were invited to an afternoon meeting (2:30 p.m. EST) with conciliation director Cyrus S. Ching and other mediators.

The company, a key unit in the telephone industry, refused last month to send negotiators here to confer with the union.

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—A survey of the House rules committee and House leadership indicated today the Lodge-Gossett bill to abolish the electoral college is dead for this session of Congress.

The bill would submit to the states a proposed constitutional amendment. This, if ratified by 36 states, would discard the present system of giving the winning presidential candidate the entire electoral vote of a state and, instead, split up the electoral vote among the candidates in ratio to their popular vote totals.

It already has passed the Senate and is in the House rules committee. If it clears the rules committee, it must get a two-thirds vote of the House before being submitted to the states.

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia, March 2—(AP)—Western reporters were barred today from attending the spy trial of Dutch business man Johannes Louwers and nine Czech co-defendants.

When the reporters arrived at Pankrac state court where Louwers went on trial they were told there were no more tickets left for the proceedings. Announcement of the trials opening was made only last night. The reporter for the official Czech news agency is attending the trial.

First Play by Pettis Players Is Successful

Capacity Crowd at Opti-Mrs. Club Sponsored Showing

The first play to be given by the Pettis Players since its reorganization on October 17, 1949, was an outstanding success.

The play, "The Man Who Came To Dinner," a three act comedy, was presented Wednesday night at the Smith-Cotton high school auditorium to an appreciative audience which filled the auditorium to capacity, with many standing.

Sponsoring the play was the Opti-Mrs. Club, which plans to sponsor other plays by the Pettis Players later.

The play was superbly cast with each character looking and acting his or her part from the lead roles to the least parts.

That the acting was near professional was brought out in the fact that a number of people who had seen the stage play by professionals in New York and other cities, believed that the acting was equal and in some cases even surpassed, in their opinion, some of the professionals.

Leading Characters

The lead rolls of the play were taken by Michael J. Bogutski and Mrs. C. W. Stephenson. The supporting cast included Mrs. Ted Gardner, Miss Bettye Ellsworth, Donald Harrison, Miss Gayle Scruton, C. E. Alden, Mrs. William Ward, Mrs. Fred Rose, Otis W. Wiley, Ted Gardner, Miss Marilyn Williams, Frank F. Evans, Finney Bryant, Mrs. Ben Klein, "Dusty" Wiley, Scott Webber, Bob Younger and Jack Meyers.

Choir boys appearing in the play were Robert Rialti, James White, Albert Fox, Richard Shoemaker, James Satterwhite, Jerry Fox, Harry Lynn Satterwhite and Donald Hofheins.

Others taking part were Bob Fisher, Dick Riker, Jim Clevenger and Bill Taylor.

Good Makeup Artists

The makeup was very realistic. The makeup artists created old men and women from young men and women and put on natural looking beards, as well as other effective makeup.

Adding to the play, too, was the setting, which included a stairway.

The technical personnel consisted of W. D. Bruce, stage manager; Maurice F. Hogan, setting; Mrs. Otis W. Wiley, property manager; Mrs. Bob Wall, Mrs. Leo Bopp and two men from Marshall; Don Thomas and Richard Scheele, makeup; and assistant technicians Mrs. C. E. Alden and Miss Marie Fritz.

Others Taking Part

Girl Scout assistant ushers were Sandra Ryan, Patricia Keel, Cynthia Mynatt and Patricia Callis.

Doormen were William Ward, George Miller and James Kerrigan.

Directors of the play were Mrs. John Metcalf and Michael J. Bogutski.

The Pettis Players have already received two offers to present the play in other towns and a number of persons from surrounding towns expressed the wish Wednesday night that the play would be given in their towns.

Getting Ready For Election

The board of registrars of the City of Sedalia will hold open its books from 8:00 o'clock in the morning until 8:00 o'clock at night on Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 23-24-25 in the police station of the city hall building, at which time those who have, for any cause, failed and neglected to do so, may register so they will be entitled to cast their votes in the general city election to be held within the City of Sedalia on Tuesday, April 4, 1950.

Last spring the total registered, as submitted by registrars of the four wards in Sedalia, was 19,484. The total registered in the three precincts of the first ward was 3,977; three precincts in the second ward 2,354, five precincts in the third ward 6,475 and five precincts in the fourth ward 6,678, making an overall total of 19,484.

Anyone qualified may register at any time during open hours in the office of the city clerk.

Announcement of Some Deadlines

Ben P. Robinson, deputy commissioner for Sedalia, states the deadline for 1949 truck and passenger licenses has been set for March 8.

Highway patrolmen will make arrests on all delinquent truck tabs, as well as all 1949 passenger licenses.

Passengers in Derailed Train Entertained

MASON CITY, Iowa, Mar. 2—(AP)— A young lady with a violin sustained the spirits of 40 chilly passengers last night after their train was derailed when the engine hit a snowbank.

The derailment brought injuries to Engineer Albert H. Guse, 67, of Sanborn, Iowa. It occurred about a mile west of Mason City.

The train involved was the Milwaukee lines "The Sioux" bound from Sioux Falls, S. D. to Chicago.

The accident occurred when the locomotive struck the unexpected drift which had been blown onto the tracks and packed hard by the high winds.

The passengers, none of whom was hurt, remained composed although the zero cold caused discomfort because the heat went off.

There was even an interlude of bright spirits when a young woman passenger removed her violin from its case and played gay tunes. The passengers were transferred to another train an hour and a half later.

State Rests in 'Mercy Death' Murder Trial

Judge Denies Move For Directed Verdict of Acquittal

MANCHESTER, N.H., March 2—(AP)—The state rested at 2 p.m. (EST) today in the Sander "mercy death" murder trial.

The jury retired from the room and chief defense counsel Louis E. Wyman immediately moved for a directed verdict of acquittal.

Judge Harold E. Wescott denied the motion.

Earlier the state's star medical witness testified that he believed Mrs. Abbie Borroto was killed by an air injection in her veins administered by Dr. Sander.

Dr. Milton Helpern, deputy medical examiner of New York City, gave this testimony as the state neared the close of its first degree murder case against the 41-year-old country doctor.

At the end of a long hypothetical question, Dr. Helpern said:

"In my opinion death was caused by an air embolism resulting from the injection of 40 CCS of air."

To End Agony

That is the amount of air the state charges Dr. Sander injected into Mrs. Borroto's arm last Dec. 4, in a gesture of mercy to end the agony of her cancer.

Dr. Helpern said:

"The basis for my opinion is that 40 cubic centimeters of air represents a substantial quantity if injected rapidly and would be carried into the heart and pulmonary artery."

The prosecution medical expert testified that while the autopsy could not disclose presence of air it was "significant in that it didn't reveal any other cause of death, which would have necessarily caused as rapid a death at the time death occurred."

After long cross-examination by defense counsel Helpern completed his testimony at the noon recess. Attorney General William L. Phinney said he might call one more witness before resting the state's case this afternoon.

Miners Found 'Not Guilty' of Civil, Criminal Contempt

Information On Coal Strike Briefly Told

PITTSBURGH, March 2—(AP)—Pennsylvania—the nation's second largest coal producer—today proclaimed "a serious public emergency" in the soft coal strike.

Governor James H. Duff called on all villages, towns and cities to allocate available fuel supplies in the public interest.

He said the state "faces a crisis of disastrous proportions."

Over the nation, chill temperatures added to the economic impact of fuel shortages.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2—(AP)—Gov. Forrest Smith said today he has received no requests for emergency coal supplies to be made available from surplus at defense installations.

Secretary of Defense Johnson announced the program in Washington yesterday. The governor received telegraphic notification of it from Johnson last night. He got another notice this morning from S. J. Chamberlin, commanding general of the Fifth Army, Chicago.

Under the plan, the governor would certify critical institutional needs to the Army. The institutions receiving Army coal would repay the defense installation which shipped emergency supplies.

Smith said he knew of no emergency situations in Missouri.

PITTSBURGH, March 2—(AP)—Sub-freezing temperatures in part of the nation made the soft coal emergency more acute today.

Unemployment in allied industries is mounting hourly.

More than 200,000 workers now have joined the 372,000 striking United Mine Workers in idleness.

The governor of Massachusetts was given emergency war-time powers.

The Massachusetts state executive council, acting on Governor Paul A. Dever's request, granted him authority to seize and ration soft coal.

DETROIT, March 2—(AP)—"The entire country will be shut down in two weeks," if the coal strike is not ended soon, says Henry Ford II.

The president of the Ford Motor Co. made this prediction today in commenting on the production cutbacks by Pittsburgh steel companies and a threatened industrial gas shortage in Ohio.

"If John L. Lewis wants to put his own prestige above the welfare of the country, we're licked," Ford said. "You can't make a man work if he doesn't want to."

Meanwhile the Ford Motor Co. has turned over to the city of Dearborn, where its parent plant is located, 950 tons of coke and 25,000 tons of hard coal.

The Ford plants are operating five days this week.

Union Contended It Was Not to Blame For Miners Not Returning to Work

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Attorney General McGrath said today the government will appeal from the contempt acquittal of the United Mine Workers.

McGrath made the announcement after a huddle of attorneys at the justice department.

He said the appeal will be taken from the acquittal of the union on the civil contempt charge.

He pointed out that the law does not permit the government to appeal an acquittal in a criminal contempt proceedings.

The appeal will be to the court of appeals for the District of Columbia.

By Norman Walker

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—A federal judge today found the United Mine Workers innocent of contempt although the UMW's 372,000 coal miner members are defying a court's back to work order.

The decision left the government without any apparent ready weapon to enforce the court's order or to get the coal production needed to head off a nation-wide industrial break down.

There was new talk in Congress of seizure of the coal mines. The administration was reported to be considering it.

At the Justice Department there was a huddle over the next step.

A possible move would be to seek "stop strike" injunctions in courts throughout the coal fields, seeking action directly against defiant UMW locals.

The case here was against the international union.

Federal Judge Richmond B. Keech, who heard the case without a jury, announced a verdict of "not guilty" on both the civil and criminal contempt charges.

The judge said that he had considered the government's petition and "found on the record" that the charges of contempt of his Feb. 11 back to work order were not supported.

The union had contended that it was in no way responsible for the refusal of the miners to work. Its defense was that the 372,000 coal diggers had each quit work by individual decision, not by direction of the union and that officers of the union had done all they could to end the strike.

Short Announcement

It took Keech just two minutes to announce his decision.

After offering counsel for both sides an opportunity to be heard and saying that he had "heard none" the judge signaled to the marshal to escort him from the courtroom.

He made his announcement soberly and white-faced.

Keech had prepared a long written opinion, but announced his ruling and did not bother to read the prepared document.

The decision was a stunning surprise to the crowded court room because the union in two previous strike cases has been held guilty and compelled to pay fines aggregating $2,130,000.

Government officials increasingly concerned over the spreading economic effects of the coal production stoppage had placed high hopes on the contempt case as a means of getting the miners back to work.

There are indications the government may now turn to seizure of the mines unless there is a quick contract agreement that gets coal production going again.

President Truman, in response to questions, confirmed at a news conference today that seizure plans have been drawn up. Deprecating their significance, he said plans are always drafted, covering all the president's powers.

But one report was that the plans were completed only yesterday and were designed specifically to deal with the present situation. The Evening Star said the administration plan is to ask Congress for a law permitting seizure if all other efforts to get coal production have failed by early next week.

Assistant Attorney General H. Graham Morison told reporters in response to questions that he had no comment on the verdict.

Asked if the government could appeal the decision, he replied: "We think it can be appealed on the civil side." But he would not say whether the government planned such an appeal.

Welly K. Hopkins, union chief counsel, commented:

"A fair and equitable decision."

No Television For Family on Relief

COLUMBUS, O., March 2—(AP)—If a family can afford a television set, it can not receive poor relief, the county welfare department said today.

Director Robert P. Stith said investigators found some families were using part of their relief allowance to make installment payments on TV sets.

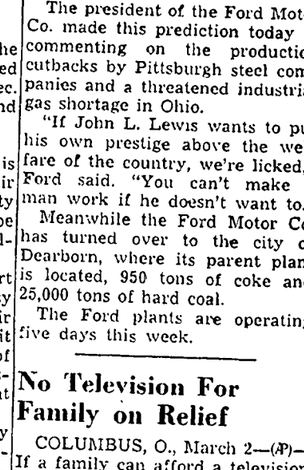

Harvey D. Dow Candidate For Congress; GOP Nomination

JEFFERSON CITY, March 2—(AP)—Harvey D. Dow of Sedalia filed Wednesday for Republican nomination in the sixth congressional district. He is a former member of the state House of Representatives.

O. K. Armstrong of Springfield, another former legislator, also is in the race for the Republican nomination.

Two Democrats have filed in the sixth so far—Rep. George H. Christopher of Amoret, the incumbent, and L. Thomas Dixon of Springfield.

Joseph M. Badgett of St. Louis filed for the Republican nomination for state auditor—the same office he sought unsuccessfully in the 1948 primary. The Democrat incumbent, W. H. Holmes of Vienna, is the only other auditor candidate to date.

Harvey D. Dow

Harvey D. Dow, Sedalia attorney, as a member of the sixty-third general assembly, served on these committees: civil and criminal procedure; municipal corporations and workmen's compensation.

Mr. Dow about four decades ago served as prosecuting attorney for Pettis county and through the many years since he attained manhood had been active in the Republican party in local and state politics.

He is a Spanish-American war veteran and in later wars has given his time and endeavors to participants in World Wars I and II to help them when called on for advice or information that might be to their benefit.

Brain Operation Relieves Pain

TOPEKA, Kas., March 2.—(AP)—A noted psychiatrist said today medical science has a means of relieving hopelessly ill patients of unbearable pain without resorting to so-called mercy killings.

The method, said Dr. Karl Menninger, is a delicate brain operation known as the pre-frontal lobotomy.

"Just now the public is interested in so-called mercy killings," he said in an interview. "This is a mercy operation—not a killing." He added that the operation could be considered only as a last resort and should be used only when all other means of treatment fail.

Dr. Menninger said that in the lobotomy, the doctor takes a small portion of the front lobe of the brain which is a sensative point—a relay—out of the head.

"Pain of any organic disease can be relieved by the lobotomy operation," he said. "But the patient's outlook on life must not be more than six months, althouhg we have many who are living several years after such an operation has been performed."

The psychiatrist pointed out that the operation is not new. He said it had been used at the Winter general veterans hospital here for the last five years. Dr. Menninger is a consulting psychiatrist at the hospital.

Farmers' Cash Fell Sharply

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Farmers' income from marketings fell sharply in all except five states last year, the agriculture department reported today. Cash receipts were up in Florida, Texas, New Mexico, Arizona and Delaware as compared with 1948.

Missouri and Kansas were among the top ten states last year. Missouri ranked sixth with a total of $944,357,000 against $1,085,717,000 in 1948. Kansas was eighth with $933,576,000 in 1949, compared with $1,130,319,000 the previous year.

Higher prices for citrus fruits pushed Florida farmers' 1949 receipts up 19 per cent, tops for the nation percentagewise.

On the other extreme was North Dakota, with a 32 per cent decline, resulting mostly from smaller marketings and lower prices for wheat and flaxseed.

Texas, with a 10 per cent increase, led in total farm income from marketings. The big southwester nstate overhauled both California and Iowa 1948 leaders, to take the No. 1 spot.

Texxas and California topped the two billion dollar mark in farm income for 1949. Iowa missed it by about six million dollars.

Saves Children From An Apartment Fire

OKLAHOMA CITY, March 2—(AP)—A frantic Oklahoma City mother rushed into her flaming apartment twice Wednesday and carried her two babies to safety as a third child ran out of the building.

Mrs. Mildred Rumsey, 23, was in the yard when she noticed flames shooting from the ground-floor apartment. She ran back, snatched her 8-months-old daughter, Mary Anan, from her flaming bed and carried her to a neighbor's.

The mother returned to the burning bedroom and carried out her son, Kenneth, 2. Another son, Clinton, 5, made his own way to safety.

Her husband was at work.

District Fire Chief W. C. Roach said the blaze started in the baby's bed. He could find no cause for the fire.

The Doctor Answers

By Dr. Jordan

By Edwin P. Jordan, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

The stomach is a most important organ and many things can go wrong with it, both real and imaginary. The first two questions in today's batch are typical of those which worry a great many people.

Q—I had a perforation in the stomach, was rushed to the hospital by a police ambulance and operated on immediately. The doctor just had time to repair the perforation. Is the spot where the ulcer was and the perforation just as strong now after the operation as it was before the perforation developed?

J. A. R.

A—When the perforation or hole in your stomach developed, it allowed the contents of the stomach to escape into the abdominal cavity — or would have in a short time. When the surgeon repaired the perforation, he probably cut around the hole and sewed healthy parts of the stomach together again. What else he did depends on where the ulcer was located. The areas sewed together are sometimes more liable to the formation of new ulcers. Except for that slight risk, however, your stomach should be as good as ever.

Q—Is there such a thing as a nervous stomach? If there is what can be done for it? R. A. W.

A—There is no disease called a "nervous stomach." Nevertheless it is well known that the nervous system has a great effect on the actions of the stomach. Some people are so susceptible that they will become nauseated and vomit under conditions of great nervous strain. What one can say then is that the stomach is highly susceptible to excitement, anger and other emotions even though there is no disease which goes under the name of nervous stomach. What can be done for it is another matter. If there is nothing wrong with the stomach itself, a good line of attack might be to lead a calmer life.

Q—Does radium shorten one's life if it has been given for a small growth?

A—Not at all. The purpose of the radium is to treat the growth and to lengthen life rather than to shorten it.

Q—I have been told that I have nicotine poisoning from smoking too much. I have stopped smoking but shouldn't I take some medicine to get rid of the poisoning? E. G.

A—No, nature will take care of getting rid of it for you if you do not add any more to your system.

Q—For over a year now I have had trouble with my tongue burning. What cause this? H. O. S.

A—A burning sensation may occur in the absence of obvious cause, or the cause can be hard to find. Even inflammation may be present but not visible. Rough or unclean teeth and dentures may produce irritation at the tip of the tongue. A low-grade infection can occur without redness but with soreness and burning of mouth surfaces. Smoking, food or drink may irritate the tongue. Things to try include cleaning and smoothing out of the teeth or denture, a decrease in smoking and the use of less irritating food and drink.

Q—I have heard that the absence of half-moons on the nails is a sign of tuberculosis. Is this true? L. R. P.

A—This is not true. However, the nail beds are frequently affected by any general infection, including tuberculosis, and therefore it is possible that they will change in appearance in the presence of that disease.

Israel Lacks Night Clubs

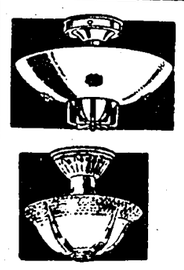

TEL AVIV—(AP)—If you're looking for a night club, "austere" Israel isn't the place to find it. The best that can be done along that line is to find a restaurant or cafe where there's a lone, piano player, or sometimes a small orchestra for dancing.

Happy Is The Day When Backache Goes Away . . . .

As we get older, stress and strain, overexertion, excessive smoking or exposure to cold sometimes slows down kidney function. This may lead many folks to complain of nagging backache, loss of pep and energy, headaches and dizziness. Getting up nights or frequent passages may result from minor bladder irritations due to cold, dampness or dietary indiscretions.

If your discomforts are due to these causes, don't wait, try Doan's Pills, a mild diuretic. Used successfully by millions for over 50 years. While these symptoms may often otherwise occur, it's amazing how many times Doan's give happy relief—help the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters flush out waste. Get Doan's Pills today!

Among the self-service equipment which has been installed include a dairy case, refigerated self service meat case, and a self service frozen food case.

Mr. Swope, owner of the new store is inviting his customers to check the prices in this week's advertisement. He says "these may appear to be sale prices, but are typical of the low prices that his customers will find every day of the week."

Highway Post Office Coach Here Tonight

Will be Displayed At Union Bus Station From 4 Until 10

An innovation of the U.S. Mail Highway Post Office is being made by the Springfield - Des Moines Southern Stage Lines this week prior to starting three runs out of Des Moines of this and two other coaches soon. The coach painted in red, white and blue with lettering designating it as a U.S. Mail Highway Post Office, was here Wednesday morning and returns to Sedalia for a showing from 4 o'clock until 10 o'clock this evening. It will be at the Union Bus station, Second street and Lamine avenue.

The coaches are 35 feet long, eight feet wide and has standing height inside of 81 ¾ inches. The interior is exactly like the U.S. Mail cars used on the railroads and have ample room to carry mail. On each side are sliding doors through which the mail is deposited and taken out. It is so built that it will also carry any and all types of mail including the baby chick parcels.

Modern Inside

Everything of modern convenience has been arranged inside for the civil service employees who work the mails. The interior was especially designed by the postal department. A battery of lights in the ceiling provide ample light for the clerks. There is a modern system of ventilation as well as a heating system.

A. B. Fletcher, manager-owner of the stage lines, is traveling with the coach on its tour of Inspection. Mr. Fletcher, well known in Sedalia, stated the routes on which the coaches operate furnish mail service to those towns and communities which are losing out in the rail mail service. In other words this new system takes the place of the rail and the star route systems and gives better services to many communities.

Serve More Communities

His three routes which go into operation within a few days was the thirteenth contract let by the Post Office Department and is known as HPO-13-C. Many communities from Springfield to Des Moines have indicated they would like for the system to be used in this area and it is possible applications and petitions will be sent the Post Office Department requesting the Highway Post Office service.

The coach on display here this evening was built by the C. D. Beck Co., of Sidney, Ohio, at a cost of $17,500 of which three were ordered by the Stage Lines Company, all to be used at the present time in Iowa.

Green Ridge Club Meeting

The Green Ridge Extension club held its February meeting on Tuesday of last week at the home of Mrs. Mattie Myers of Green Ridge. A contributive dinner was enjoyed at noon.

Mrs. Royal Ragar was elected to fill the vacancy of the president, Mrs. E. C. Johnson who resigned. The county plays to be given in March were discussed. A receipt for the ten dollars sent by the club for a package to C. A. R. E. was acknowledged. The receiver of the package was a woman in Germany.

Miss Lilian Watkins, home agent, was present and made a brief talk. The meeting was turned over to Mrs. Rex Welty, who started the club members on textile printing, a project of the year.

Guests present, were: Mrs. Bennie Clevenger, Mrs. E. C. Vogelbaugh, Miss Lillian Watkins, Miss Erma Whallon, Mrs. Louise Adkins, Mrs. George Gorrell and Mrs. Wayne Stark, the latter two, members of the Van Natta club.

Too Little Coal To Keep Cooler Warm

FORT COLLINS, Colo., March 2—(AP)—The city jail was closed to wrongdoers Wednesday — too little coal made the cooler too cool.

Police Chief O. P. Kelley ordered the radiators turned off and the doors locked to ease the strain on the city's dwindling fuel supply.

It won't be open season for lawbreakers, however. Sheriff Ray M. Barger extended the hospitality of the Larimer county jail.

Philadelphia Studies Parking

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—The nation's third largest city may soon go into the parking business. Philadelphia Mayor Bernard Samuel has appointed a five-member City Parking Authority "to study and try to solve the traffic congestion problem."

The mayor said the city might construct underground parking sites to relieve traffic tie-ups.

Find Doors Open

The police found the doors to two business establishments open Wednesday night, one to the Harvey Brothers Implement Co., at 305 West Main street, at 10:30 o'clock and the other at the Canteen in the Milner hotel building at 11:05 o'clock.

U. S. Needs More Jobs

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON—The Council of Economic Advisers has just presented a secret, 3-page analysis of the country's economic problems to the President. Here in brief is what Truman's advisers told him:

The major problem facing the country today is the sharp rise in unemployment. In January, unemployment set a record postwar high, with 4½ million out of work—almost a million higher than the previous month. Unemployment is now at 7 per cent of the total labor force, against only a little over 4 per cent one year ago. The increase of a million in the ranks of the unemployed in a 30-day period is considerably more than would normally occur at this time of year.

Partly offsetting the poor unemployment picture is the high level of home construction, business loans and bank clearings. In addition, those people who are still employed have not received any appreciable pay cuts.

In general, the present situation, while warranting the closest study, is not as yet alarming. The basic problem is one of expanding the United States economy fast enough to absorb the ever-increasing number of people available to work. During 1949, for example, the labor force increased by 1,300,000. Today's high level of unemployment is due to the failure of the economy to grow sufficiently during 1949.

The present economic situation calls for action along three major lines: The development of a program to stimulate business investment, planning for large public works expenditures and increased attention to local areas of severe unemployment; continued government spending in order to pour money into the economic stream (defense spending, social security, unemployment compensation, veterans' benefits and so on) and the rapid settlement of the coal strike before coal shortages send a chain reaction of unemployment throughout the nation.

Few economists in Washington go along with the President's advisers when they minimize the economic danger signals. Other economic experts consider the sharp and unexpected increase in jobless to be a serious economic storm signal.

On eof the most tragic aspects of the unemployment picture is that men of 40 and over, with growing families, have been hardest hit.

There is good reason why Guy Gabrielson, the friendly G.O.P. national chairman, is sitting back pleased as punch despite the hullaballoo over the Republican policy statement. In little over six months, the New Jersey man has accomplished the impossible. He has not only pulled the limping G.O.P. out of debt, but has put more than $200,000 in its coffers.

When Gabrielson was elected chairman by the skin of his teeth, the national committee was bankrupt and had bill collectors beating on the door. Gabrielson's job of paying the bills was done with the help of Douglas Stewart, president of Quaker Oats, and former Senator Sinclair Weeks of Massachusetts.

Last June, after a huddle of lawyers in Birmingham, Ala., an important income tax fraud case wase sent back to the Justice department in Washington where it was marked "closed," "no prosecution." The case involved Joe Mitchell and Sam Ripps of Mobile, who were alleged to have profited from the sale of jewelry to army post exchanges during the war and then cheated the government out of income taxes.

On December 16, 1949, this column published the story of the Ripps-Mitchell scandal, including the fact that they were defended in Birmingham by Ben Leader, former law partner of John Hill, United States attorney, the man who was supposed to prosecute them. Hill issued a general denial.

However, the Justice department, with some of the new facts disclosed by this column, reopened the Ripps-Mitchell case. And last week, in Mobile, the men were indicted.

See Spud Growers Floundering In Hot Political Potato Soup

By Peter Edson
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON —(NEA)— Political potato soup is getting thicker. Illinois Sen. Scott W. Lucas' proposed farm bill amendments to end all government potato price supports until marketing quotas are established has hit commercial potato growers right between the eyes. It even has the Department of Agriculture worried.

Secretary of Agriculture Charles F. Brannan has been yelling for Congress to do something about the potato situation. But the fear is now that the Lucas proposal goes too fast and too far.

It would put the government in the position of going back on its announced promises to support the 1950 crop of potatoes at 60 per cent of parity—or an average of $1.01 per bushel.

The Lucas proposal could not affect 1950 potatoes already planted in the Southern states. But it might, of course, deny supports to Northern states where planting comes much later. This would be discrimination which Northern potato growers would naturally resent.

Finally, the Lucas proposal would deny all future price supports unless the commercial potato growers agreed to marketing quotas.

An important distinction here has to be made between what the Department of Agriculture refers to as marketing "agreements" and marketing "quotas." Marketing agreements cover only the grading and sacking of potatoes according to size and quality. About 85 per cent of the 1950 potato crop will be under marketing agreements. Their effect was to have only the top-grade potatoes go to market.

Marketing Quotas Limit Yield

Marketing quotas, however, cover the quantity production of potatoes. In order to beat acreage allotments which the Department of Agriculture imposes as a condition to receiving price supports, potato growers planted their rows closer together and used more fertilizer. Under marketing quotas, they would not be permitted to increase their yields in this way. Growers would have to limit their production to a specified number of bushels of potatoes they would market, in order to be eligible for price supports.

The legal procedure for establishing marketing quotas is closely prescribed. The issue of whether to impose quotas is submitted to commercial potato growers for a vote. Two-thirds of the growers must vote in favor of quotas before they can be put in effect.

Trying to forecast a timetable on how quotas could be imposed on 1950 potatoes shows what kind of trouble the government might be letting itself in for if the Lucas proposals passed Congress. They are now in the form of riders to a bill amending cotton acreage limitations. Assume these amendments could be rushed through Congress by the end of February. It would then take two or three months for the Department of Agriculture to print ballots, distribute them, have the farmers vote by mail and tabulate the results.

It would thus be some time in May before the quotas could be calculated and assigned. By that time nearly all U. S. potatoes are planted. And, of course, there is always the risk that the quotas might be voted down by a third or more of the 20,000 U. S. commercial growers who planted three acres or more in potatoes last year.

Lucas Stirs Political Rumblings

Senator Lucas' interest in pushing through his proposal to end potato price supports unless quotas are imposed is, of course, well intentioned. It is aiming at ending quickly what has become a national scandal on potato price support payments. Illinois is not a major potato producing state. It had only about 1200 acres in commercial potatoes last year—about 1 per cent of the U. S. total.

Illinois corn farmers, however, have a genuine interest in this issue. If the potato price support thing gets any worse, the whole price-support program may be endangered for all other crops.

In view of objections from the National Potato Council—the growers' trade association and Washington lobby—it is possible that the Lucas proposals will be toned down. They might be made to apply to the 1951 crop, for instance. That would mean the government would have to muddle through, somehow, under the present program for 1950, at a loss of $80,000,000 to $100,000,000.

What the Department of Agriculture is really afraid of is that if the potato rules are now changed in the middle of a crop year, it will undermine the farmers' confidence in all other government promises.

The Lucas proposals would, however, take the department off a $100,000,000 hook, and that might be the simplest solution for a sorry mess.

FURTHER SUGGESTIONS OF HOW NOT TO DEAL WITH RESENTMENTS

Yesterday we considered two ways we are not to use in dealing with resentments and hates, namely, suppression and expression. To suppress them means to create a sore boil at the center of our subconscious being. To express them makes us sore boils on the body of our social relationships. Morever, if we give people "a piece of our mind," we shall probably lose our own peace of mind!

(3) Nor is there much use in trying to run away from circumstances which give rise to resentments. A doctor found a patient nervous, unable to sleep, collapsed. He asked if his home relations were adjusted and happy, and was told that they were. Then, as an afterthought, the patient replied that he and his mother-in-law didn't get on. That was the point of conflict. The doctor sent him and his wife off for a vacation, away from the mother-in-law. Good, but not good enough; for while there would be temporary respite and a letting down of tensions, yet they would tighten up again as the prospect loomed up of having to meet the same situation. The remedy was a mere temporizing, for the relief was only temporary.

(4) To try to do as one woman said she did is good, but also not good enough: "When filled with resentments I would go to the piano and bang out my resentments through Mozart's Sonatas, with apologies to Mozart." That would give temporary relief and act as a feeling drainer, but it did not tackle the causes.

(5) Nor will it do to nurse our resentments in our minds. That only makes them worse. They will carry over into the whole of life and spoil it. One woman said that when she entered the quiet time for prayer, the only thing she could do when she became quiet was "to chew on my resentments." The quiet time simply brought to the surface what was a continuous fact—a nursed grievance.

All of these methods are attempts to heal over a boil. And to heal over a boil is a dangerous act—it may drive the poison in. The poison must be drawn up and out.

O my father, I am tempted to do everything about these resentments—everything except the one thing I must do: get them up and out. But I shall resist that temptation and be inexorable with myself. I shall need Thy help, for I cannot get them up alone. The roots have gone deep. Help me. Amen.

The Doctor Says—

Attention to Good Posture Should Make You Feel Better

BY EDWIN P. JORDAN, M. D.
Written for NEA Service

Long-continued bad posture may cause real harm to the human body. It produces too much stretching of some muscles and ligaments and too much relaxation of others. It often interferes with the proper free flow of blood.

Shallow breathing comes with poor posture. This will cause a reduced supply of oxygen to the tissues which need them. Bad posture tends to cause drowsiness and sluggishness; the mental attitude may be depressed and slow. Pains in the legs, back or feet and undue fatigue are frequently symptoms of poor posture.

Standing, sitting and lying are the three important postures. Good standing posture does not necessarily mean the position of attention required of military men on parade. As a matter of fact, long-continued standing at attention slows the blood circulation and too much blood gathers in the lower extremities.

Many men, if required to stand at attention long, especially in hot weather, will faint for this reason. Obviously they are not responsible for this fainting which is due to a lack of blood supply in the brain.

In standing the weight may be shifted from one foot to another and from the heel to the toes. The body, which is allowed to make such shifts, becomes less tired and the muscles less tense. The body should be held erect with the knees and feet directed straight ahead. The abdomen should be held flat but not tense.

Chair shape and how one sits in it are important. The trunk and head should be held straight above the seat or tilted a little forward. The height of the chair from the floor ought to correspond to the distance of the legs from the knee to the heel. This, of couse, varies with the size of the individual. The back of the chair should be straight and comfortably fitting. Too low and too soft seats tend to cause poor sitting posture.

Check Your Bed

Many beds are softer than they should be. This causes too much relaxation of some muscles and tenseness of others. Some backaches are produced from too soft beds. When the bed has too much sag a piece of plywood can be placed over the box spring and under the mattress.

Good posture requires proper exercise. Exercise increases the supply of air to the lungs, improves the circulation and favors that feeling of well-being and health, for which everyone ought to strive.

Cops No Tax Experts

CHICAGO —(AP)— A letter addressed to the Chicago Police Commissioner set forth:

"I do not know how to make out my income tax. I made in 1949 $1,223.19 and $15.20 was withheld out. Would you please figure this out for me?" In reply a clerk told the writer, a woman, that some other public servants would help her if she went down to the post office.

• Side Glances

"They'd surely knock something off your income taxes if you'd just get up the nerve to tell the government you give them most of your salary for bonds!"

Rough Going, But Still in the Driver's Seat

By Rupert Hughes Copyright 1950 by Rupert Hughes Dist. by NEA SERVICE, INC.

THE STORY: Azalea Palmer, young, beautiful, platinum haired, finds her father murdered at her home. A short time before her fiance, Paul Moody, a young sculptor, had gone to see the murdered man, Wendell Palmer, because he had opposed Paul's plans to marry Azalea and had prevented Paul from obtaining a commission to sculpture a group of figures for a new building. Nadine Fennell, Azalea's closest friend, has succeeded in quieting the murdered man's daughter and the police have been called.

III

AZALEA PALMER and Nadine Fennell were still numb with shock and dumb for lack of words to fit their horror, when the air was pierced by a wild superhuman banshee wail that seemed almost to express the mad sorrow that death and sudden death and vicious death must uglify the world.

The two girls, shrinking away from the mute victim of crime, were in such torpor that it seemed as if Nadine had no more than left the telephone and taken the shivering Azalea into her strong arms when the radio siren-shriek was broken off, and they heard the sound of footsteps on the outer marble stairway.

Through the open door came two big officers, who strode to the side of the two girls and stopped short as if on the edge of an abyss, as familiar to them as death is to a doctor.

To the questions implied in their eyes, Nadine gave what answers she could. Indicating Azalea, whose head was buried in Nadine's shoulder, she said:

"It's her father.- Wendell Palmer."

The two officers exchanged glances and then looked down at the dead with a new respect. Wendell Palmer was a big man. This homicide was a big thing. Dorton saw that the heavy base of the telephone must have been the weapon that crushed the reddened skull. He did not need to ask if either of those frail girls had done the work. Nadine went on:

"This is his daughter, Azalea Palmer. I just brought her home from the tennis tournament. I let her out at her door and drove on. I found her gloves and drove back. She came running down the steps, crying that she had found her father—murdered. I came in with her. I telephoned the police. We haven't touched a thing."

"And a good thing you didn't," said Cloyd Dorton added: "We won't touch nothing neither till the detail from downtown gets here." Cloyd added to that: "Don't you think the little lady had ought to lay down and save her strength? She's got a lot to go through yet."

• • •

BUT at the idea of such idle repose, Azalea rebelled. For all her gentleness of soul, it was her nature to meet her problems standing up and fighting.

Dorton's voice gave a sharp command: "Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone!"

Already a few strangers were drifting in, sightseers whose curiosity and the sight of the police car at the curb had drawn up the steps to the open door. The officers herded them back to the crowd clotting on the sidewalk, and closed the door.

Then, while Dorton stood guard in the room, Cloyd prowled about the house, the cellars, the upper rooms, the gardens against the remote chance of catching the killer still lurking about.

Nadine had forced Azalea into a big chair and sat on the arm of it, helpless to offer any solace to the softly weeping girl, who was now a complete orphan, with no mother, no father, no brother, or sister, or any kin or kith to share that suffering that was still a secret, not yet the headline mystery of the day which would soon fascinate the whole nation.

The girls kept their eyes averted from the untouchable body on the floor, and hardly noticed the entrance of a big, ugly man in plain clothes whom Dorton greeted with a none too friendly,

"H'lo, Kelso."

• • •

IT was not till long afterward and then by some trick of awakened memory, that Azalea recalled hearing Dorton's voice in a sharp command:

"Get back there, Kelso! Don't touch that phone! My God, ain't you been on the force long enough to know better'n to lay hands on the weapon that prob'ly done the deed? Keep back, I say, or I'll run you in, detective or no detective."

Azalea and Nadine heard the words and saw the man, but paid no further heed.

Meanwhile the police machinery was still at work. The voice that had sent the radio car to the scene, had notified Police Headquarters of Wendell Palmer's name and fate, and address. Instantly a team of two police detectives had dashed to a car and sent it shrieking through the traffic.

• • •

THE medical examiner, who had just come in from the gory street-scene of a car collision, dived back into his sedan and made for the Palmer home.

Since there would doubtless be latent fingerprints to discover and develop, Ray Pinker, the chief of the Crime Laboratory, did not send a man from the R and I (Records and Identifications) Bureau, but chose one of the dozen or so experts in the SID (Scientific Investigation Division).

He detailed James Stivers, who hurried away carrying a field kit the size of a suitcase. In the caravan were also a cameraman and a police stenographer.

As the various cars pierced the thronged streets, through twisting lanes opened by the sirens, a covey of newspaper reporters raced after them.

In less than half an hour, the home that Azalea had found so dreadfully empty was more crowded than it had been when her father and mother had given one of their famous receptions there.

(To Be Continued)

Hate to bring this up, but . . . March 15 is the last day for Filing Income Tax returns.

COLUMN

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—There came a time when the earth was divided into two hemispheres, the east and the west

Great was the contention between them and each charged the other with seeking to rule the world. And the hemispheres became armed camps

There were then 4,000,000,000 people in the world No man's mouth was free to speak his yearning, and all men bent under the burden of readying their hemisphere against the enemy

Nine-tenths of every drop of sweat, every yard of cloth, every pound of gold, every ton of steel was spent to "safeguard the peace" This was true everywhere upon the globe The people groaned in thier tatters, but the engines of war were gleaming and fed

Island Disappears

It chanced that on a warm and moonless night in April the Island of Bermuda disappeared, with a titanic crash beneath the surface of the sea Two passing airliners saw it go down in a dim tower of foam They radioed an alarm

Three hours later a 50-square-mile area of forestland in Siberia erupted in broken greenery from the impact of a gigantic force

The chancelleries of the world held hurried conference and then agreed

"Counterattack!"

And the engines of war were unleashed Each side sent up huge guided missiles, carrying hydrogen bombs in their warheads The slender missiles passed in midair over the Atlantic and Pacific oceans, leaving a murmurous sigh in their wake

Where they landed, cities or landscapes disappeared — and so did radio stations and cows and violins, and old books, and the paintings of Rembrandt and the lives of millions of people

"Victory or death!" cried the eastern leader

"Win or perish!" cried the western leader

Bombs Mushroomed

And the bombs mushroomed by the hundreds, then by the thousands And great winds arose and carried the dust of death over every land In six weeks every man, woman and child, every bird, every beast was gone The trees gave up their leaves, the moss turned white and no ant crawled

The last thing on earth to die was a worm four miles south of Oak Ridge, Tenn It was washed out of the soil by a radio-active rain—and collapsed

Then the spectral spirits of the earth's 4,000,000,000 people flew in a vast host to the gold bar of Heaven Through the gates they could see green grass and rainbow flowers And the gates opened and the souls of all the slain children skipped into Heaven

So They Waited

And the parents surged after them, but a mighty voice called

"Wait" And they waited

"Why did ye this unto me?" said the voice

"They started it!" cried the leader of the east

"No, you started it!" cried the leader of the west

So the celestial bookkeeper was called and he said

"On a night in April a small island in the Atlantic was struck by a large meteor Three hours later — hmm very unusual — another meteor landed in a Siberian forest Then everyone on earth just seemed to lose his mind?"

They Were Afraid

"Why?" said the mighty voice

"Because we were afraid," said the leader of the west

"Yes, because we were afraid," said the leader of the east

"Ye were afraid to live — therefore ye died?" said the voice "Look at the Eden I gave ye!"

The great host turned and looked across the fields of space They saw the dear familiar earth, the hills of home, spinning in gray ruin under a silent sky

And as they watched the gates of Heaven closed noiselessly behind them.

Auto Life Doubled

PHILADELPHIA—(AP)—Today's automobile life expectancy has doubled Today, whether the vehicle is ready to fall apart or is fresh off the assembly line, chances are that it will have more than 12 years of service and 103,000 miles behind it before reaching the junk heap This compares with an average life span of about six years and 25,750 miles for the car of 1925

These figures are cited by W L Aiken, chief automotive engineer at SKF Industries, Inc He's already driven his own car more than 200,000 miles—and it's still going strong

Chiang Back To Presidency

TAIPEI, Formosa, March 2—(AP)—Chiang Kai-Shek Wednesday returned to the presidency of Nationalist China declaring the Red conquest of the mainland was 'the gravest catastrophe" in 5,000 years of Chinese history

(In New York, however, acting President Li Tsung-Jen declared he still is President of China and is "making ready' to return and challenge Chiang's right ot the presidency

(In a statement Li declared that when Chiang resigned he became a private citizen Li found it 'astonishing how at this time he sees fit to make himself president without an election')

Less than 30,000 square miles of his once vast domain—smaller than any of the provinces of Red China—remain under Chiang's effective control

Yet, in a short and simple ceremony in the former Japanese governor general's administration building, Chiang announced "I do not have any doubt that we will recover the mainland"

In resuming the presidency he left just 13 months ago Chiang called his predecessor, acting President Li Tsung-Jen, for aid

The generalissimo sent Li a telegram in New York, where the vice-president is recovering from a recent operation It asked him to 'please contact American leaders both in and outside the government on my behalf" Chiang apparently still hopes for U S aid in the battle with the Reds

Pair In Jail After Passing Of Checks Here

Officers Report They Readily Admitted Their Activities

A young couple who claim their home as Salt Lake City, Utah, who said according to local officers had been passing worthless checks from San Diego, California to St. Louis, were arrested about 5:30 o'clock Wednesday evening at the Zero locker, Main street and Ohio avenue, after passing a check for $20. Both gave statements before Sedalia police and state highway patrol officers as to their activities over a period since February 6 when they left their Salt Lake City home.

The couple identified themselves as Carlos Gerald Hansen 28 and his wife, Genevieve Morgan Hansen, 27, Mrs. Hansen said she is the mother of four children their ages are six, seven, eight and nine. The pair is being held in the Pettis county jail pending further investigation.

It was shortly after 5:30 o'clock when a man hurried into the police station, tapped Officer Cecil Smith on the shoulder and said "there is a couple who appeared to be passing a bad check at the Zero market. "The officer hurried to the place and found the two being detained after having cashed a $20 check and obtained groceries valued at about $6.00. They were taken to police headquarters where, a session of more than four hours lasted in questioning the two, who freely told of their activities since February 6. They also told of a previous husband of the woman who she said was the "cause of all our trouble."

Tell Of Fictitious Names

They told of going to San Diego, California, and of visiting Los Angles, California, returning to their home and then starting east to Blue Springs, Mo., where the four children were said to have been left with a relative of the woman. The couple told of leaving there and going to St. Louis, where they said they tried fifteen or more places before they located a small grocery where a $10 check was cashed.

In a joint signed statement the couple explained they went to a town or city and visited banks, asking tellers for check books and were never questioned. They then told of waiting until after banking hours before trying to cash a check. The same procedure, they said, was used in Sedalia.

The checks in Sedalia were written on the Third National Bank and according to the two fictious names were signed to them. They cashed a $10.00 check at the Howard Gwinn grocery at Ninth street and Engineer avenue, a $20 check at the Safeway store, a $10 check at the Harvey-Jett store on South Ohio avenue, and the check at the Zero market.

Gwinn walked into the Zero locker while the couple was there and he "tipped" the check cashing off to E. Glenn Lewis. Gwinn also identified the couple to the police as having passed a check at his establishment.

After signing a statement they were taken to a restaurant and given their dinner and then placed in the county jail.

Had Check Books

The couple had in their possession a number of check books from the Colorado State Bank, The American National Bank, Mountain State Bank, all in Denver, Colorado: The First National Bank, United Bank and Trust Co., all in St. Louis; The Exchange National Bank of Jefferson City, Citizens National Bank, Bank of America, Security First National Bank, all of Los Angeles, Calif., and the Third National Bank of Sedalia.

Also in their possession were 182 checks written on the above banks and also on the First Security Bank of Utah, Ogden, Utah; The San Diego Trust and Savings Bank and the First National Bank, both of San Diego, Calif., patrolmen said The checks were in denominations of from $75 to $10 each and their total amount was $3,825. These checks were all written out and ready to be passed.

Charges of forgery were filed against the couple this morning before Magistrate W. M. Ilgenfritz.

Safety Talk to Kiwanis Club

A safety message was brought to Sedalia Kiwanians by Sergeant Paul Stahl and Officer George M. Vernon of the Kansas City Police department at the club's meeting in Bothwell hotel Thursday noon.

Sergeant Stahl, who was introduced by program chairman Tom D. Schaad, spoke briefly concerning a program of stimulating sustained interest in protecting life and limb on the farm, in the home and on the highways. Supplementing the talk he and Officer Vernon then showed a moving picture "Paradise Valley," depicting the unnoticed hazards confronting farmers in their daily tasks on the farm.

James Young, Kansas City, was a guest of Guy Bailey. Another guest was Kiwanian C. J. Perkins, Kansas City.

Dies as Husband's Funeral Starts

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 2.—(AP)—A 40-year-old woman died yesterday just as her husband's funeral was starting.

The death of Mrs. Beth Nevins was called a suicide by Coroner Randolph Neale. He said death apparently resulted from an overdose of sleeping tablets.

The husband, Clark C. Nevins, 48, a Neon sign executive, died last Monday. Tuesday night Mrs. Nevins was found in her locked bedroom asleep. Her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Bunnell of Chicago, summoned police after they were unable to rouse her.

She died in a hospital.

Father of Egyptian Beauty is Dead

CAIRO, March 2—(AP)—Hussein Fahmi Sadek, secretary-general of the Egyptian communications ministry, died last night of a heart attack.

Sadek was the father of Narriman Sadek, the 16-year-old beauty reportedly the choice of King Farouk as his next bride.

The father said on Jan. 22 that he would be "filled with honor and joy" if such a marriage took place.

Censorship is strict in Egypt, and there has been no official confirmation from Cairo that King Farouk will marry Miss Sadek.

Secretary of Commerce Undergoes Operation

CINCINNATI, March 2—(AP)—Surgeons arranged today to perform an operation on Secretary of Commerce Charles Sawyer for removal of gallstones.

Secretary Sawyer, whose home is in Cincinnati, underwent a series of tests yesterday in Christ hospital.

Charles Sawyer, Jr., said his father had a slight attack several years ago and a recurrence recently.

Two Fire Calls

The fire companies were called out twice this morning within 11 minutes, both calls resulting from fire spreading from a burning trash pile. The first alarm was at 11:26 o'clock to 1117 Ware avenue where grass had caught fire. No damage resulted.

The second alarm was received at 11:37 o'clock to 644 East Eleventh street, where burning trash had set fire to dry grass and spread to a shed at the residence of George Lovercamp. Slight damage resulted.

Pope Pius XII Is 74 Today

VATICAN CITY, March 2—(AP)—Pope Pius XII celebrated two anniversaries today — his 74th birthday and the 11th anniversary of his election to the papal throne.

Fully recovered from a recent attack of influenza, the pontiff planned a routine day with no special celebration. White and golden flags were raised over Vatican buildings in honor of the leader of 400,000,000 Roman Catholics.

The Pope was greeted today by several of his close associates. He then addressed some 300 Lenten season preachers of Rome. Vatican representatives of 50 nations having diplomatic relations with the papal state signed an album of greetings to the pontiff.

Il Quotidiano, official organ of the Italian Catholic action, said the election of the Pope 11 years ago marked the beginning of "one of the most troubled and greatest pontificates in history."

Family of Five Die in Fire

KENOSHA, Wis., March 2.—(AP)—A flash fire wiped out a family of five in a small frame cabin in a trailer camp on the edge of the city early today.

The dead were Carroll Maxwell, about 28; his wife, Betty, 26, and their three children, Jimmy 4, Steve 2, and Patricia, 2 months.

The Maxwell's two-room board cabin was beyond saving by the time the Pleasant Prairie department arrived. The firemen concentrated their efforts in the three below zero cold on keeping the flames from the trailers crowding the camp.

The sheriff's department said all the victims were trapped in their beds, except Maxwell, who apparently tried to get out.

The fire department blamed an oil heater for the blaze.

Miss Maxwell was kidnaped by bandits near Moulmein several days ago. Arrangements had been made for her release, when friendly villagers, acting on their own initiative, forcibly rescued her. This touched off a battle in which Miss Maxwell and 12 villagers were slain.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 2—(AP)—A jewelry salesman from Pittsburgh, Pa., was robbed of $100,000 in unmounted diamonds in a daring mid-town holdup last night.

The bandit fled in a car that had drawn alongside his cab as he was en route from his hotel to Union station to board a train for Memphis.

Smithton Church Entered by Vandals

The Smithton Methodist church was entered sometime Tuesday night by intruders, according to a report made to Sheriff John Taylor, Wednesday afternoon. Reverend Earl F. Dillon, pastor, reported to the sheriff entrance was gained by forcing open a basement window.

It was believed the same party or parties who broke into the Smithton school entered the church. In the church basement the thieves ate some canned fruit that was in the church kitchen.

Rev. Dillon said that apparently nothing was missing and that the vandals just broke in and ate the food and then left by a side door. The discovery of the church break-in was made by the church custodian, Miss Laura Kruse.

It is believed by the authorities investigating the two break-ins that the same party, or parties, are responsible.

Says A-bomb Impractical

ST. LOUIS, March 2—(AP)—Dr Arthur H. Compton said last night the H-bomb is impractical from a military standpoint "for the simple reason it doesn't do what you want done in war."

The Washington University chancellor and wartime A-bomb scientist declared that it is not the objective of war to destroy a whole population but rather to reduce the enemy's will to resist.

He said the A-bomb could have been made more destructive but wasn't at the request of the military for tactical reasons.

Ready to go to War Time Basis

WASHINGTON, March 2.—(AP)—Senators learned at a secret session today that emergency plans are ready now for shifting this nation to a war-time basis—including civilian defense against possible atomic bombing.

Chairman Tydings (D-Md) said these assurances were given to the senate armed services committee by the top civilian planning agency, the national security resources board.

Presidential assistant John R. Steelman, who also serves as acting chairman of the board, presented a summary of defense and emergency mobilization plans at a closed-door committee session this forenoon.

Tydings said the senate group was pleased with what it learned at the conference but asked the defense leaders to resurvey their plans and see "if any standby legislation should be enacted at this session of congress."

A report on this was asked by April 1.

Dams Save the Fish

SANTA ANA, Calif —(AP)— Members of the Izaak Walton League have worked out a check dam project which permits year-around living conditions for stream fish in this water-scarce area.

Using funds from Santa Ana county's share of fish and game law fines, the group built 27 small dams in series of three and four to back up water into pools.

Tigers in the Quarter-finals Of State Meet

Team is Playing With Clinton This Afternoon

The Smith-Cotton Tiger basketball team and coaches left from the high school this morning to enter the semi-final round at 2:00 o'clock this afternoon with Clinton Cardinals in Columbia, site of the Missouri Class A high school basketball tournament.

The Tigers were shown movies of the basketball game between Kansas State and Missouri and visited various buildings on the Missouri university campus this morning.

Starters

Starting in the second round this afternoon were: Lankenau and Walker, guards; Holst, center; Ruffin and Brown, forwards. The other team members making the trip were McCrary, Morgan, Johnson, Edwards and Shawver. The Tiger coaches are James Ball and Howard Glavin.

All students of Smith-Cotton desiring to see the game were given the afternoon off from the school. Many left around noon for Columbia.

COLUMBIA, Mo., March 2—(AP)—St. Louis teams dominated the first round of the Missouri class A high school basketball tournament, earning three places in the quarter finals tonight.

The survivors from the eastern metropolis are McBride and University high, both Catholic schools and Kirkwood of St. Louis county. The only St. Louis victim was Baumont, which bowed to Joplin.

Here's the lineup for the second round of the annual event played at the University of Missouri:

McBride vs. University High.
Kirkwood vs. Hannibal.
Clinton vs. Sedalia.
Crystal City vs. Joplin.

Biggest Trout Was Whopper

R. C. Guinn, Lands 7¾ Pounder At Roaring River

Associated Press Photographer

ROARING RIVER STATE PARK, Mo., March 1—(AP)—By all Missouri standards the biggest trout hooked here on this opening season day was a whopper.

If R. C. Guinn of Carthage, who pulled him in, had waited to tell about the big one without the evidence, the boys would have accused him of taking fishermen's license.

Guinn's beauty, caught on live minnow, stretched the scale pointer down to 7¾ pounds and was 23¼ inches long.

Just to show you how big the trout was the state conservation commission boys at Jefferson City went to their record books. They found that the largest trout reported for the entire year 1949 in the state was a 6¼ pounder. It was hooked at 11 Points River in Oregon county.

Unless someone comes along to catch a bigger one—which is unlikely—Guinn will cop the opening day prizes for the largest fish, the longest fish and the heaviest string of fish.

The jack-pot hitter was just one of some 500 men and women from nine states who came optimistic and stayed that way.

Opening Big Success

After looking over the catches and the smiles of the anglers who lined the mile and half of stream, Superintendent Dick Stamp reported:

"This has been the most successful opening in years."

For the most part the bait fishermen fared better than the devotees of the fly. The latter blamed their luck on their lack of form and snap this early in the season.

The temperatures and the wind might have had something with it too. Although the mercury dipped to 27 at streamside this morning, the day dawned clear. However a stiff wind began blowing in mid-morning.

While the number of limit catches was not reported there were many fishermen who had creeled the limit of six. Throughout the day there was a steady stream of cars through the park.

States represented here included, besides Missouri, Minnesota, Idaho, Iowa, South Dakota, Arkansas, Indiana, Oklahoma and Kansas.

Umpire Tells Of New Rules In Baseball

Bill Stewart Admits Umpires Make Mistakes

CLEARWATER, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Bill Stewart has admitted that baseball umpires do make (pardon the expression) mistakes.

The short, chunky National League arbiter might be thrown out of the umpires union for such a remark but evidently he thougnt it was the better part of valor as he briefed the Philadelphia Phillies on 1950 rules.

Stewart began his talk by saying he was the first to admit that baseball umpires do make mistakes.

Stewart lectured at great length yesterday on the new strike zone, on the balk rule and on the new regulation forbi. ding a base runner to deliberately crash into an infielder to thwart a double play.

Here's one that all baseball fans should be interested in. Before you boo the ball and strike decisions this season, paste Stewart's statement in your hat:

Erroneously Defined

"The strike zone always has been erroneously defined in the rule book. The rule names the strike boundaries as "between the shoulders and the knees.

"It was never that high," Stewart declared, adding, "the strike always was called from the arm pits to the knees."

Discussing the mixups and flying blocks players use trying to breakup the double play, Stewart said that henceforth the base runner must make a sincere effort to go for the bag and not for the infielder.

Slight Change in Balk Rule

The pitchers' balk rule has been changed slightly.

One section of the balk rule used to read that the pitcher, with men on base, must come to "a complete stop" after taking his stretch. This year the rule is more definite and times the stop at one second.

Another change concerns picking runners off base. If a pitcher steps off the rubber and then makes a wild throw and the ball goes into the stands, a runner gets two bases instead of one. If the pitcher is still in contact with the rubber and has not balked, the runner gets only one base.

The catchers' balk reverts to the old rule again this season. A catcher may stand as far away from the plate as he wants in issuing an intentional walk to a batter. Last year they made the catcher stay within a specific distance of the plate.

Southwest Missouri State Beat Ottawa Braves 58-43

SPRINGFIELD, Mo., March 2—(AP)—Southwest Missouri State jumped to an early lead and stayed ahead the remainder of the game to beat the Ottawa Braves, 58-43, last night.

Bill Tiegreen, Ottawa center who has better than 18-point-a-game average, was held to nine points.

Springfield was ahead 31-20 at halftime.

Missouri Rabbits To Pennsylvania

The rabbit buying season which began last November came to a successful close Saturday, February 18 for Charley Roberts, of Lincoln, who reports that he bought a total of 9,407 live rabbits during the season.

Mr. Roberts paid forty cents each and bought from trappers over all parts of the country. The two first prizes of seven dollars each offered by David Meyer of the Sedalia Station to the trappers catching the greatest number of rabbits during the season were won by Roy McCubbins of Lincoln, who caught a total of 1,250 and trapping partners, Kenneth Fewell and Calvin Rains of west of Lincoln, who caught a total of 1,561.

The rabbits were placed in large cages and shipped by truck to the state of Pennsylvania where they will be used to re-stock parks and other rabbit depleted areas there. Mr. Roberts plans next season to establish a truck route whereby he will be able to pick up the rabbits direct from the trappers.

'I'm Not Paid To Hit' Says Jim Hegan

Four Out of 71 Catchers Batted .300 or Better

By Ralph Roden

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—Jim Hegan, capable catcher of the Cleveland Indians, said recently, "I'm not paid to hit."

A check of the major league spring rosters shows that Hegan is not the only one. Of the 71 catchers listed by the 16 clubs only four who participated in 100 or more games batted .300 or better in 1949.

The top batting performance was turned in by Carl Swatski, husky rookie of the Chicago Cubs. Swatski pounded Southern Association pitching at a .360 gait while belting 45 home runs and driving home 153 runs in 128 games.

Compiles .322 Average

Harold Keller, young brother of Detroit's Charley, brings a .322 batting mark to the camp of the Washington Senators. Keller compiled that average in 125 games for the Hagerstown Interstate League Owls.

The remaining .300 plus hitting catcher is Ray Murray, an aspirant for a berth on the Cleveland Indians. Murray banged away at a .319 pace in 123 games for Oklahoma of the Texas League.

Hegan, who played in more games than any other major league catcher last year, 152, batted only .224. Brooklyn's Roy Campanella had the best batting mark among major league backstops who played in 100 or more games, .287.

Here's how some of the regulars did at the plate last year. Bob Swift, Tigers, .236 in 74 games; Del Rice, Cardinals, .236 in 92 games; Clyde McCullough, Pirates, .237 in 91 games; Joe Tipton, Athletics, .204 in 67 games; Andy Seminick, Phils, .243 in 109 and Ray Mueller, Reds-Giants, .243 in 88.

Texans Dominate

ORMAND BEACH, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Only eight players remained in the championship flight of the South Atlantic Women's Golf Tournament today and half of them were Texans.

Leading the quarterfinalists in play over the Ormond Beach Country club course was Betsy Rawls, 21-year-old University of Texas coed who was medalist in Tuesday's qualifying round.

Briefs on Big League Training

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 2—(AP)—Manager Casey Stengel said today only four men have regular jobs "sewed up" with the world champion New York Yankees.

He listed them as outfielder Joe Dimaggio, outfielder-first baseman Tommy Henrich, catcher Yogi Berra and shortstop Phil Rizzuto.

Brooklyn Dodgers

VERO BEACH, Fla., — Two things heartened flu-weakened manager Burt Shotton today as his Brooklyn Dodgers swung into the second day of spring training.

One was the spry deportment of key shortstop, Peewee Reese, who underwent a hernia operation in the winter. The other was the streamlining of pitcher Don Newcombe, who reported he lost seven pounds in yesterday's workout, and catcher Roy Campanella, who dropped five.

New York Giants

PHOENIX, Ariz. — Manager Leo Durocher has tagged right-hander Sheldon Jones for an exclusive starting role this year and picked him for 20 pitching victories.

"With any kind of luck Jones should win 20 games," the New York Giants skipper said.

Jones, who started and relieved both last season, won 15 and lost 12.

Boston Braves

BRADENTON, Fla. — Pennant stock of the Boston Braves jumped considerably today after it became known first baseman Earl Torgeson would be able to throw properly. Torgy suffered a shoulder separation last May. "He threw well enough to satisfy me," said manager Billy Southworth of Torgy. "Sure, he threw sidearm. But he always did."

Boston Red Sox

SARASOTA, Fla. —Billy Goodman, courageous young first baseman of Boston Red Soxx, still has a few spots of fungus infection on his hands. The slight, peppery youngster, was hampered last season by losing weight and spread of the Pacific jungle rot contracted during his war service. The Sox named Steve O'Neil yesterday as coach to succeed the late Hazen (Kiki) Cuyler.

Detroit Tigers

LAKELAND, Fla. — Manager Red Rolfe is following the same spring training policy with the Detroit Tigers that he did last season. He demands hustle and lots of it.

A midnight curfew went into effect immediately. Golf will be banned after March 11.

St. Louis Cardinals

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — St. Louis Cardinal trainer Buck Weaver has a patient in his clinic after just one day of exercise.

The patient is Ted Wilks, the Redbirds' ace relief hurler. His right heel was sore from a spur that cropped up last season. Weaver rigged up a special shoe pad in an effort to lessen the shock around the heel. The heel pains Wilks both while pitching and running.

St. Louis Browns

BURBANK, Calif. — The St. Louis Browns' psychologist scheduled his first class for today.

Dr. David Tracy, who watched the Browns work out yesterday will hold class in the hotel for part of the team today while Manager Zack Taylor is working with the rest of the players on the field.

Taylor commented: "I know that Dr. Tracy will do all that he can to give the boys the confidence they may need."

Philadelphia Athletics

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla.,—A 30-year-old rookie may be the answer to Connie Mack's search for a far-hitting outfielder for his Athletics.

Ben Guintini, who socked 32 home runs for Dallas of the Texas league last year, cannonaded three 350-foot drives over the left field fence and caromed another high off the centerfield wall, nearly 400 feet from home plate, in the opening drill yesterday.

Philadelphia Phillies

CLEARWATER, Fla. — Manager Eddie Sawyer said today the first spring training drills convinced him that the Philadelphia Phillies are in condition to a man.

Sawyer said he was especially pleased with the form displayed by his pitching staff — in particular rookie hurler Milo Candini.

Pittsburgh Pirates

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif. — Heavy workouts were ordered today for three Pittsburgh Pirates pitchers who picked up too many pounds during the winter.

Bill Werle, Jim Walsh and Frank Papish will take more than their usual turns in chasing fly balls to get in form.

Chicago White Sox

PASADENA, Calif. — The Chicago White Sox are past the first training camp hurdle — the weigh-in — and not a single player flunked his test.

Outfielder Gus Zernial was the only 200 pounder at yesterday's opening session. Sixteen players surprised manager Jack Onslow—they reported under their normal playing weight.

Chicago Cubs

AVALON, Calif. — Manager Frankie Frisch is so elated with the first showing of his Chicago Cubs he has called a camp game Sunday.

Washington Senators

ORLANDO, Fla. — The Washington Senators, who moved their spring training this year from bumpy Tinker field to the smoother turf of the Tangerine bowl football stadium, are moving back to Tinker today. The reason: High winds.

"At least at Tinker field there are fences to keep out most of the blow," said Manager Bucky Harris. "This way, we might just as well stay in the hotel."

Cleveland Indians

TUCSON, Ariz. — The Cleveland Indians — with only one day of spring training — are three days ahead of schedule, according to the figuring of manager Lou Boudreau. Usually the first three or four days are devoted to running and pepper games, but this year the squad looked in such good condition that Boudreau held batting practice the first day. "As a result, we are about three days ahead of schedule," Lou concluded.

Cincinnati Reds

TAMPA, Fla. — Big Ted Kluszewski — of all people — was tabbed today as a Cincinnati Red holdout, after the first day of spring practice. Kluszewski, the Reds' regular first baseman last year, has been doped to have some rough competition this year Joe Adcock even to hold his job. When Ted didn't show up Manager Luke Sewell declared "Kluszewski is our only holdout." Infielder Jimmy Bloodworth hasn't signed his 1950 contract, but Sewell called him a "hold-on." Bloodworth needs only 90 days to become a 10-year man in the majors.

The average salary for public school teachers in the U. S. for 1949-50 was estimated by the National Education Association at $2,985.

Harvesters Win Over Stover

The Sedalia Harvesters, sponsored by Harvey Bros. Implement company were victorious in their first round of the Syracuse town-team tournament Wednesday night. They defeated Stover 59-51, in a fast but well played game. The Harvesters led throughout the game but were never able to get a good safe lead. The Harvesters led at the half by the score of 23-18. Martine was Stover's "ace" with 22 points before fouling out in the final two minutes of play. Berry was close behind in the scoring department for the Harvesters with 21 points. The Harvesters counted with eleven free tosses to Stovers five. This boosts the Harvesters record to 12 wins against 3 losses.

Other games of the evening found Versailles coming out on top of Barnett, Otterville triumphed over Clarksburg, and Green Ridge downed Syracuse.

Survivors of B Regional Tournament

Hughesville Beat Appleton City By 34-27 Count

By the Associated Press

Play in four of the eight Missouri Class B regional basketball tournaments reached the semi-final stage today.

Survivors of the semi-finals tonight are assured of berths in the Class B state tournament, beginning at Springfield next Tuesday night.

The Semi-final Lineups Are:

At Warrensburg: College High vs. Windsor; Grandview vs. Hughesville.

At Union: Leadwood vs. Brentwood; Elvins vs. St. Francis Borgia of Washington.

At Cape Girardeau: Puxico vs. Senath; Piedmont vs. Clarkston.

At Marshall: School of the Osage vs. University High of Columbia; Tipton vs Winston.

Coffey high school, the powerhouse of northwest Missouri, marked up its 31st straight victory last night in the Maryville regional by defeating Westboro, 49 to 38.

Richland, seeded No. 1 in the Lebanon tournament, fell by the wayside in its initial tournament test, with a 39-36 defeat at the hands of unseeded Warsaw.

In the Hughesville-Appleton City tilt, Hughesville trailed at half time 13 to 8, which was the lowest half time scores the cagers have chalked up all season.

After trailing most of the game, the Wildcats came alive with three minutes left to play and forged ahead to win by seven points.

High point man for Hughesville was Das Conway with 18 points, while Meyers counted with 8 points for Appleton City.

Hughesville was hampered by the absence in the lineup of Janney, fast passing forward, who was out due to illness.

The victory brought the Hughesville record up to 27 victories in 29 starts. The team meets Windsor tonight at 7:00 o'clock.

By Glenn Myatt
Former Cleveland Catcher

It was with Cleveland that I pulled my biggest boner.

I remember it well because the great George Sisler was the runner who scored as a result.

We were battling the Browns in St. Louis when this happened and they were no pushovers in those days.

They had the bases full and none out or one out. Anyhow, a double play was what we were looking for.

A right hand batter was up and he whacked a hard grounder right down the first base line that George Burns fielded.

Naturally, the runner crossed over in front of me, heading for first base.

I got ready to take Burns' throw and to return it to him for the double play.

The throw came, and, boy, I got rid of it — right back to Burns. We had that double play, cut and dried.

But Burns took my throw running toward me and raising the devil.

"You so-and-so, you so-and-so, why didn't you tag him?" he yelled.

What had happened was that Burns had fielded the ball quickly and stepped on first base. I guess the runner was in front of me, and I didn't see it. When he got the runner out at first, the force play at the plate wasn't any force play at all.

I would have had to tag Sisler, coming from third, to get him out.

I didn't.

George Sisler scored and the Indians were beaten because of my biggest baseball boner.

Roundup of College Basketball

LaSalle Was Named to The Invitation

By Ted Meier

NEW YORK, March 2—(AP)—LaSalle, ranked ninth in the latest Associated Press college basketball national poll, yesterday was named to the National Invitation tourney. The Explorers celebrated by promptly bowling over Gettysburg, 61-50, for their 19th victory in 22 games.

LaSalle joins Bradley, Duquesne and St. Johns of Brooklyn in the NIT. Eight teams are still to be selected.

Syracuse strengthened its claim for a bid to the NCAA tourney by swamping Temple, 105-76.

Syracuse may get the district two NCAA bid since Cornell walloped Canisius, 65-43, and Villanova, although whipping Toledo, 32-62, is ineligible to compete because of non-compliance with the sanity code.

Tosses in 33 Points

Villanova's Paul Arizin tossed in 33 points to boost his season total to 649 points.

Columbia kept alive its hopes for the eastern "Ivy" league title by beating Pennsylvania, 50-47.

In other games the Oklahoma Aggies trimmed Oklahoma, 48-37; Fordham licked Yale, 72-53, and West Texas upset Arizona, 61-42.

Bradley officials, meantime, protested to the Missouri Valley conference the action of the district five NCAA selection committee in naming the Big Seven winner as the NCAA representative.

For the last several years the Missouri Valley and the Big Seven champions have met in a playoff for the district five bid. At a mass meeting last night Bradley students hanged Bruce Drake, chairman of the district five selection committee, in effigy.

Traffic Case in Court This Morning

Ester Williams, 816 North Ohio avenue, driver of a trash truck which figured in an accident at Fifth street and Ohio avenue, Wednesday morning, was fined $10 in police court this morning on a careless driving charge. David Hale, 602 West Sixth street, driver of a 1940 Plymouth sedan, also in the accident, was dismissed by Judge Harry O. Berry.

According to the police court testimony, Williams was pulling from the curb and headed east on Fifth street, and Hale was driving east on the street when the mishap occurred.

No injuries were involved.

The Pettis County Conservation held its regular meeting Wednesday evening at 7:30 o'clock in the banquet room at Hilderbrandt's cafe. This was the second meeting since the organization was formed last October. This chapter, along with 69 others in the state are affiliated with the Conservation Federation of Missouri.

The meeting was called to order by the president, Carl Wollet. The various committees were called upon for reports. The president and the membership chairman brought out the fact that the membership drive is starting immediately and urged for the club members to contact as many people interested as possible so the roster of the organization could be enlarged.

HALF-CENTURY HIGHLIGHTS

ASSEMBLY LINE techniques, of which Henry Ford was the outstanding pioneer, gave American mass production tremendous impetus in the first half of the Twentieth Century. High-speed, assembly-line production was applied not only to autos, but to almost every line of industry. America's general prosperity and high standards of living, most people will tell you, are based on American mechanical "know-how" applied to mass production by means of labor-saving machinery. Much of our food, our kitchenware, our Bibles, our furniture, our vitamins and sometimes even our houses are turned out on the assembly line. Foreigners from all over the world journey to this mecca of industrial civilization to marvel at how it's done and to pick up a little of the "know-how."

Sentenced

Dr. Klaus Fuchs (above), brilliant German-born physicist accused of betraying the western atomic secrets to Soviet Russia, was sentenced to 14 years in prison at the end of his hour and one-half trial in London. He was accused of giving Russian agents atom secrets in London, New York and while working at the Los Alamos, N. M., atom project. (AP Wirephoto)

During their first month of operations from two airfields on Okinawa, Marine fighter pilots knocked down 209 planes while losing only four in aerial combat.

Getting Monotonous

EAST LANSING, Mich.—(AP)—Michigan State ice hockey coach Harold Paulsen is getting a bit wary of pitting his freshmen against the varsity in practice. "Varsity tempers get awfully frayed when the freshmen beat them," he explains, "and they've done it five times in a row."

Curb "Market" Gets Jobs

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. —(AP)— There is an unusual "curb market" here—for humans. No one seems to know how it got started but each morning, at one street corner, a large number of workmen assemble, carrying their lunch boxes. They seem all ready for a day's work, but they just stand, waiting.

Then a truck will pull up, the driver will shout a couple words and a number, and some of the waiting men will scramble aboard the vehicle. This is repeated by other trucks until perhaps a major portion of the men is gone. The corner is the market for a fair amount of Jacksonville's unskilled labor.

If construction business is not so good, there may be few trucks of a morning. The men usually hang around the corner until about midmorning. If no job shows up, they go home.

The Barbary pirates of North Africa lived by plunder and tribute for almost two centuries, according to the Encyclopedia Britannica.

Fighting Men Deserting Ho

Declared Quitting The Communist Led Forces

(Editor's Note: The following interview with Bao Dai, ruler of French-sponsored Vietnam, was obtained by Seymour Topping, Associated Press correspondent who is now in the Indo-China area. It is the first given by Bao Dai to an American newspaperman since Vietnam came officially into being late in January.)

By Seymour Topping

DALAT, Indochina, March 2—(AP)—Former Emperor Bao Dai declared today that Nationalist elements both civilian and military are deserting Communist-led Vietminh forces to rally in support of his new French-sponsored state of Vietnam.

He said in an interview that fighting groups under the Moscow-trained Ho Chi-Minh are transferring their allegiance in increasing numbers to Vietnam and charged Ho's rebel regime with employing harsh tactics to curb these desertions. Bao Dai gave no estimate of the number of peasants and fighters going over to his side.

Bao Dai viewed this as a "healthy reaction" that "clearly shows the real feeling of the Vietnamese people toward foreign inspired ideologies that deny the traditional values."

Bao Dai heads the French-sponsored regime that covers 40 per cent of Indochina in a merger of Tonkin, Annam and Cochin China. This is 123,979 of Indo-China's 286,000 square miles and is occupied by about 21,000,000 people. The other states outside Vietnam are Camodia and Laos.

Ho heads a rebel regime which has been fighting the French in Indo-China since the end of the war in the Pacific. Location of his headquarters is a secret.

The United States and Britain have recognized Bao Dai's regime. The Soviet Union has extended recognition to Ho, as have other of Russia's satellites.

Asked about agreement with Ho, Bao Dai said "no one is excluded and all are welcome."

He said collaboration of all groups is desired to build up an independent Vietnam. He added that the military campaign would go on until security is restored. He refused to recognize any state of actual civil war within Vietnam, saying his forces are fighting "only against terrorism and banditry."

Bao Dai welcomed American economic and military aid and said such a program should be as efficient as possible and compatible with Vietnamese sovereignty.

Long Wait For Trucks at Coal Mine

(NEA Telephoto)

As the coal situation becomes more critical, the line of trucks waiting at the Perry Coal Co. mine in Somerset, Ohio, one of the few in operation in the area, steadily becomes longer. More than 400 trucks from Ohio, Illinois, Indiana and Michigan have reported at the same time at the mine after being issued sequence tickets.

Call For Files In Loyalty Check

WASHINGTON, March 2—(AP)—Senate investigators asked three government agencies Wednesday for "complete files" on Michael J. Lee, a Commerce department official whose loyalty has been questioned by Senator Malone (R-Nev).

They said the records are needed to determine whether a further investigation should be held on Malone's charges that the 43-year-old Lee, who was born in Manchuria of Russian parents:

1. Used his influence as director of the Commerce department's office of Far Eastern trade to delay shipments of aviation gasoline and other war supplies to Nationalist forces in China until they were driven out by the Communists.

2. Was rejected for U. S. citizenship three times before marrying an American-born woman and changing his name from Ephraim Zinovi Liberman.

3. Was refused commissions as an officer by both the Army and Navy prior to being placed in key war agency posts by Henry A. Wallace.

Senator Hunt (D-Wyo), chairman of the Senate Commerce subcommittee looking into the Lee case, said requests for the files were sent to the commerce, justice and defense departments.

He told reporters he expected no difficulty in obtaining Lee's records despite President Truman's previous order to bar congressional committees access to the loyalty files.

The commerce department already has said Malone's charges are old and that Lee had been cleared by a loyalty board there.

WEST ORANGE, N. J., March 2—(AP)—Gas, pouring from open kitchen stove jets, killed a 36-year-old mother and her five children Wednesday.

Police found the mother, Mrs. Arlene Kraeutler, in bed with a young daughter, holding an infant in her arms.

Court Recesses Due To A Fire

WEST PLAINS, Mo., March 2—(AP)—Judge Randolph Weber recessed a grand larceny trial on Wetdnesday afternoon because defense attorney H. D. Green had other more important business.

Green was informed his house was on fire and he ran out of the court room.

The trial opened earlier that day for Harry McGoldrick, former deputy county collector, who is charged with embezzlement and grand larceny while serving Howell county.

O. R. Amos, assistant cashier of West Plains bank, testified for the prosecution that on Jan. 13, 1949, McGoldrick brought to the bank a check for $3,,620.

McGoldrick deposited $1,870 to the county road fund, Amos said, and took the remaining $1,750 away in $100 and $50 bills.

The defendant's brother, Paul McGoldrick, was convicted and sentenced to serve two years on similar charges of embezzeling from Howell county. He was a former county collector.

Mackenzie's Column

By DeWitt MacKenzie
(AP) Foreign News Analyst

Despite the instability of Britain's labor government because of the tiny parliamentary majority it received in the general election, there is no reason to assume that her home affairs or foreign relations are going to pot as a result.

Actually the very uncertainty of tenure may prove to be a blessing in disguise at this precise juncture.

This paradoxical situation is due to the fact that England's critical economic situation, and her vast responsibilities as one of the big three western powers, call for a minimum of political confusion.

There is nothing Britain needs more at this juncture than government on a non-contentious basis.

Bound to Be Another Election

There is a fair chance—though no certainty—that this is what the country will get for a time. Of course, under the circumstances there is bound to be another general election before very long. But the current disposition of the ambitious conservatives under the leadership of Winston Churchill seems to be not to force the issue right now unless the Socialists raise a highly controversial issue. This the Socialists aren't expected to do.

There are two very good reasons why both the government and its opposition aren't anxious for another general election in the near future. One is that a quick election would be terribly disquieting for the country, and the other is that the actual monetary cost of elections is a great drain on party resources.

Burden on Attlee

The burden of avoiding highly controversial measures naturally falls mainly on the shoulders of Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet. On innocuous business, and in matters of high importance for the good of the country, he may expect cooperation from Churchill and the conservative rank and file.

At this juncture one can see four issues which might precipitate a dog fight and another general election, unless Attlee treads most circumspectly. The first one is the King's speech from the throne, which will be delivered March 6. This is a forecast of the government's program. Should this be too socialistic in tone it would be sure to draw heavy fire from the conservatives when it comes up for a vote of approval in parliament.

Then there is the touchy question of frozen wages and dividends. The trade unions are very restive and so, of course, are the folks who are waiting for their dividends.

Another Controversial Matter

A third and highly controversial matter is completion of the nationalization of the country's great steel industry. Parliament already has authorized the nationalization, but an attempt by the government to implement this drastic move would produce a big fight.

And finally in April the national budget will be introduced in commons. At the best this is bound to be full of fireworks because of the country's critical financial position.

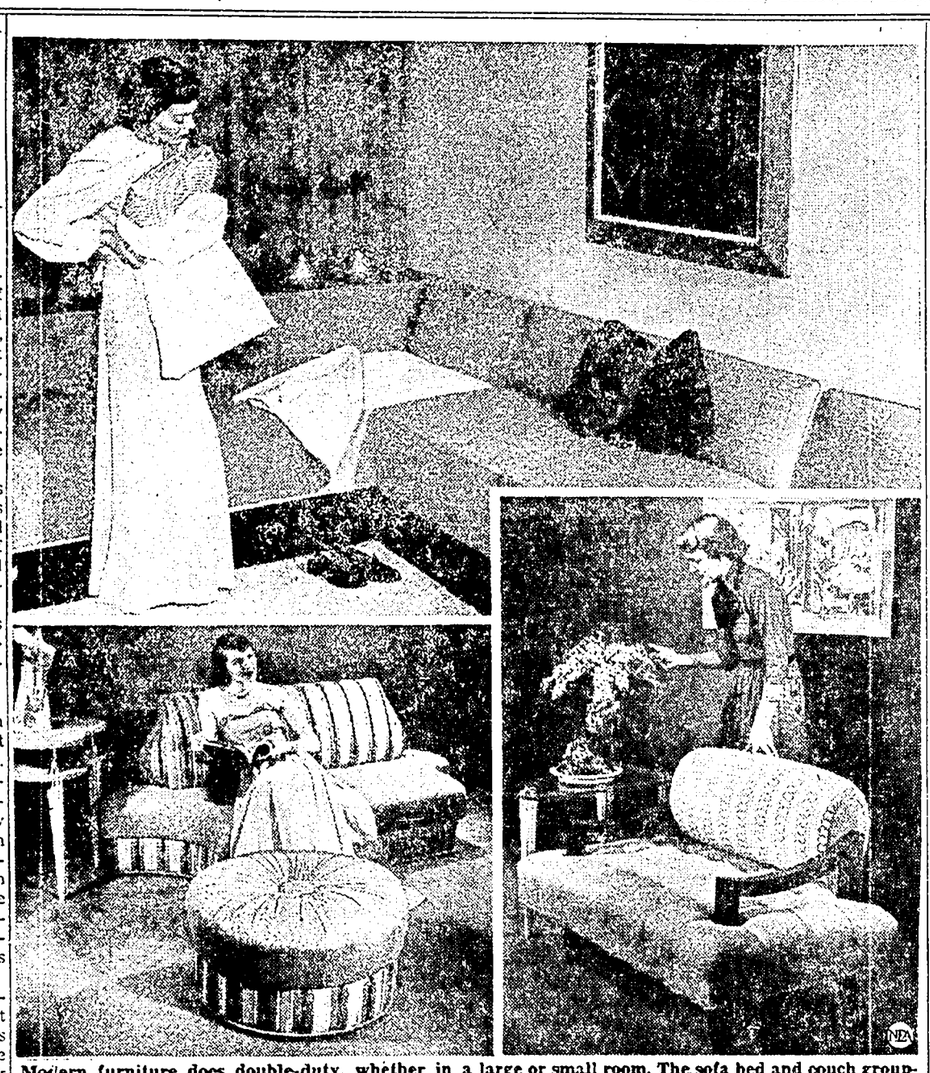

Close observers expect Prime Minister Attlee to product an innocuous King's speech. They also look for him to try to keep the boat on a level keel in other important matters at least until that troublesome matter of steel nationalization comes up, which is expected to be some time before October.

No Important Changes

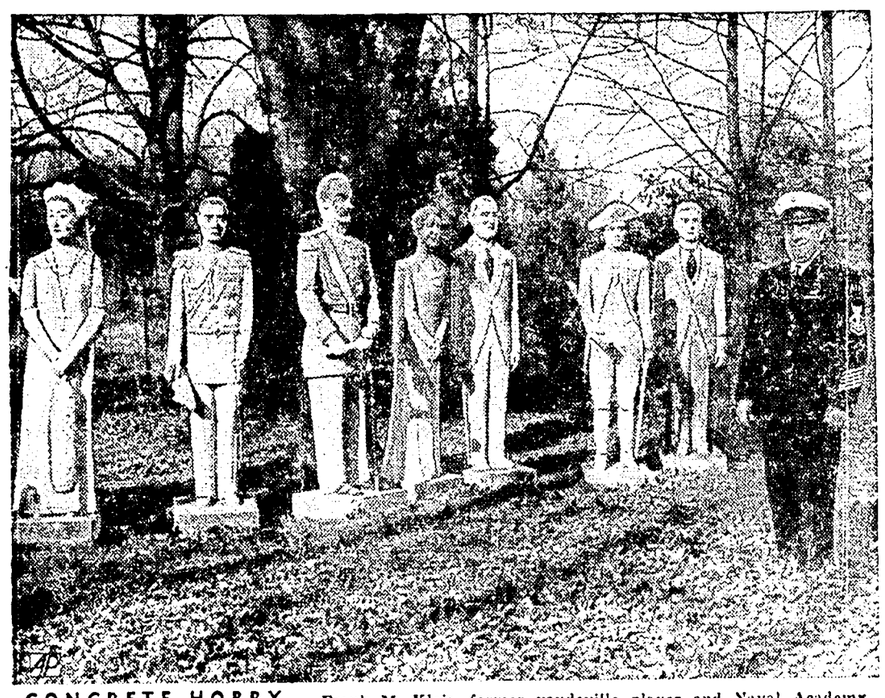

Attlee's reconstructed cabinet shows no important changes. He still has with him such stalwart key men as Sir Stafford Cripps, Chancellor of the Exchequer, and Ernest Bevin, foreign minister. Unfortunately Bevin has been laboring under poor health, but he is a fighter and will keep going as long as he is able. The position as the cabinet goes into action seems aptly summed up by the Manchester (England) Guardian, a Liveral newspaper:

"The desire of the people themselves is for moderation and restraint and the politicians will not go far wrong if they follow that advise. There is much that can be done to improve the country without turning it upside down."

Mrs. Harold Priess

The California high school band will have new uniforms. The order for 54 uniforms has been placed with the Craddock Uniform company of Kansas City and they will be delivered in late March or early April. The new uniform is of one hundred per cent wool whipcord, 14½ to 15 ounce weight; basic color royal blue trimmed in maroon anl gold; double breasted coats with brass buttons, citation cord and sleevelet emblem carrying California high school Pinto emblem; cap and trousers. Selection of materials and style was made by the following committee, Melvin Peterman, chairman, Miss Duretta Mueller, Miss Ruth Milburn, Mrs. Alline Barnett and Supt. George Riley, all members of the high school faculty, and members of the band who helped with the decision about the style and colors. At the last report, the uniform fund had reached a total of $3,046 in cash and pledges. Since this is considerably over the necessary $48 per uniform the extra money will be placed in a fund for replacement or purchase of additional uniforms if the band should be larger another year. Members of the Lions and Kiwanis committee composed of H. E. Williams, Marvin Crawford, C. D. Putnam and E. R. Lehman expressed their thanks to all who contributed or co-operated in any way with the band uniform drive.

Good foundation for a spring wardrobe is the costume that can double as coat or dress. Thin gray worsted makes the full-skirted coat-dress (left) which is styled with "lampshade" sleeves and is fastened with silver buttons. Checked wool coat-dress (right) has a double-breasted closing, slim skirt line and a convertible collar. Cuffed sleeves are set into a dropped shoulderline.

"NO LONGER SLEEPLESS!"
Changing to Famous Cereal Drink Brings Natural Relief

Can't sleep? . . . Toss and turn?... Get up in the morning feeling more tired than when you went to bed? . . . Then you'll find real encouragement in this letter from a man in Peoria, Illinois:

"Nervousness and sleepless nights were my two reasons for switching to POSTUM—and you can tell the world that drinking POSTUM instead of coffee quieted my nerves and made me sleep better, thus improving my general health."

SCIENTIFIC FACTS: Both coffee and tea contain caffein—a drug—a nerves stimulant! So while many people can drink coffee or tea without ill-effect, others suffer nervousness, indigestion, sleepless nights. But POSTUM contains no caffein or other drug—nothing that can possibly cause nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness!

MAKE THIS TEST: Buy INSTANT POSTUM today—drink POSTUM exclusively for 30 days. See if POSTUM doesn't help you, too, to sleep better, feel better, enjoy life more! . . . INSTANT POSTUM—A Vigorous Drink made from Healthful Wheat and Bran. A Product of General Foods.

R.A.F. Plans Jungle Rescues

SINGAPORE —(AP)— The Royal Air Force has formed a rescue team which will strike through jungle to rescue crews and passengers of aircraft which crash during anti-terrorist operations.

Members of the first team of 25 are men of R.A.F. ground crews. The task calls for a high degree of physical fitness, determination to overcome obstacles, disregard for discomfort and ability to read maps.

The unit carries weapons for self-defense against terrorists and hatchets to cut their way through jungle. It moves by jeep, abandoning this when necessary, always maintaining contact with headquarters.

Orange Marks Robber

PASADENA, Calif.—(AP)—"Look for a man spattered with orange juice." That's the advice Hugh Smith, market proprietor, gave officers investigating a robbery at Smith's market.

Smith said the thief got away, but not scot-free, Mrs. Smith chucked an orange at the robber as he fled, scoring a direct hit.

McKENNEY Answers Your CANASTA Questions

By William E. McKenney
America's Card Authority

Written for NEA Service

Penalty cards have long been a bone of contention. The easiest way to get around them is to carefully count your points before melding. Here's what should have happened to one of my readers who didn't:

Q—I had 2 kings and a joker down on the table, but they were penalty cards. On the previous round I had melded 3 kings and a joker, not sufficient for our minimum requirement of 90. I had discarded one of the kings. At his turn my partner melded 90 points, but the next player, my right-hand opponent, went out.

I claimed that as long as my partner had made an initial meld, my joker and 2 kings counted as a meld. The opponents said they counted as if they were in my hand. Was I right?

A—No. Your opponents were right. Penalty cards count the same as if they were in your hand until you either discard them or meld them. If the play had come around to you again, you might have elected to use your joker in some other fashion, and leave the 2 kings as penalty cards. But in any case, until you have a turn to play, they remain penalty cards.

• • •

Q—My friend A. had enough count in his own hand to meld 90, his initial requirement, but he wanted the pack. The up-card was a ten. He put down 2 tens, and took the up-card of the pack, then melded enough cards from his hand to meet the minimum count of 90. Now he took another ten from his hand and added it to the 3 tens already on the board, after which he picked up the pack. Did he have the right to take the pack, since he did not need that up-card to complete his initial meld, having another ten in his hand which would have completed it without the ten on top of the pack?

A—Yes, your friend had a perfect right to take the pack in this situation. The top card of the pack may be used (but no other card of the pack) in counting to the minimum for the initial meld, regardless of whether or not the player would be able to complete his initial meld from his own hand without the up-card.

• • •

Q—When a player discards a card that matches an opponent's meld, does the opponent have to pick up the pack?

A—Only if there are no cards remaining in the stock pile, he may always choose whether to take the pack or draw from the stock pile.

Q—What is the penalty if you are caught with a black trey when someone goes out?

A—There is no penalty except that it counts 5 against you.

• • •

Q—If the last card of the stock pile is a red trey, may I draw it and go out?

A—Yes, if you can meld all of your cards and have completed or can complete a canasta. You may not discard, however, as the red trey counts as your discard.

Mr. McKenney is unable to answer individual questions on Canasta from readers. However, he will include the most frequently asked questions in his column.

Lamp Eases Cat's Ninth Life

SANTA MONICA, Calif.—(AP)—Snooky, an 18-year-old tomcat belonging to Leo Feldworth, was getting old. Frequent colds marred his enjoyment of life.

Feldworth, an aircraft tool and die worker, decided to do something about it. He built a special bed atop Snooky's favorite snoozing place, the refrigerator. The bed was equipped with a hidden switch. Now whenever Snooky wants to nap—which is most of the time—the pressure of his body on the bed throws the switch, turning on a 100-watt infro-red heat lamp overhead.

The colds are gone and Snooky's happy. Bit Feldworth isn't. Now Snooky won't even come out to eat," he says. "We have to hand food up to him. Breakfast in bed for a cat. $Imagine."

LAST CHANCE—Reminiscent of stateline bargains in cigarets and alcohol is this sign at Little Ferry, N. J., offering next-door New Yorkers their "last chance" to buy pre-colored margarine. A New Yorker is seen stocking up on the product, which cannot be sold legally in New York.

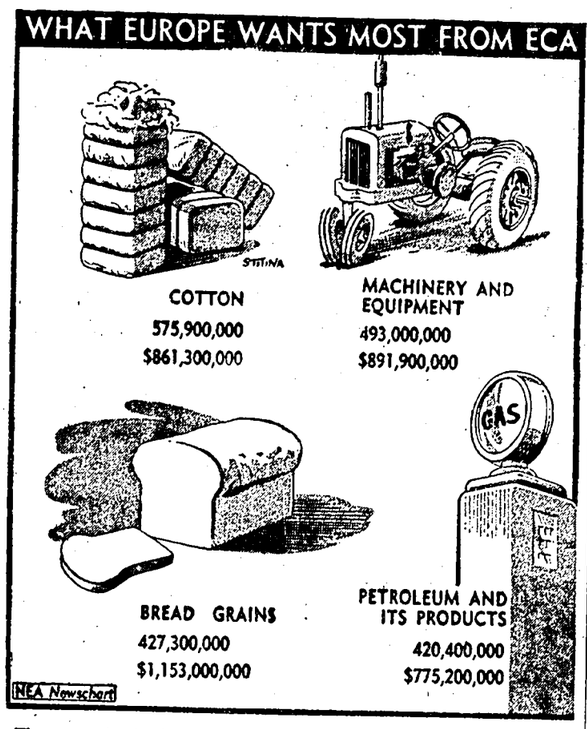

NEW YORK—(NEA)—Luxurious touches of imported lace and hand-embroidery are calculated to point up the sheer beauty of new nylon tricot lingerie. For all their fragile looks, these hand-sewn garments uphold nylon's practical reputation for long wear and easy upkeep.

Lace and nylon combine their charms in the graceful shell pink gown (left) designed by Saab. Fine-patterned lace veiled by nylon forms the bandeau which is outlined by insets of hand-embroidered imported lace. The graceful, flowing skirt falls from a snugly-fitted midriff.

Elegant frosting for the aqua blue slip (right) is provided by garlands of flowers embroidered on the deep net border of the surplice bodice. The wreath motif is repeated on the wide band of net at the hemline.

—EPSIE KINARD,
NEA Fashion Editor.

WHAT EUROPE WANTS MOST FROM ECA

The newschart above shows the four American products most frequently requested by Marshall Plan countries during 1949. Under each item is given the number of "purchase authorizations" issued by the Economic Cooperation Administration for that product and the total amount of money spent for it. All Marshall Plan products issued by ECA in 1949 totaled $3,977,600,000 in value.

Rotarians Kept Guessing

CHICAGO —(AP)— Members of Rotary Clubs are engaged in a guessing game these days. They're trying to figure out how large the organization will be when they celebrate its 50th birthday anniversary in 1955.

aul Harris and three friends started the club February 23, 1905. They called it Rotary because the early sessions were held in rotation in the offices of members. At latest count, there were 334,000 members and 6,960 clubs in 83 countries.

Alfred Tisch, chairman of Rotary's extension committee, came up with the idea for the guessing game. "We can," he guesses, "have 10,000 clubs and 500,000 members by 1955."

Mink Coat Walks Away

CHICAGO—(AP)—A $2,000 mink coat was draped over a chair in a north side restaurant. It belonged to Mrs. John A. Heinzelman. She and her table companions paid no particular attention to it. But a blonde did. The blonde simply picked it up, walked out and vanished.

Butter-nut BREAD'S GOOD IDEAS

KITCHEN TRICK

NEW VEGETABLE — Banana scallops! Slice firm bananas crosswise into inch thick rounds, dip in salted beaten egg, roll in fine bread crumbs and deep fry until brown and tender.

HOUSEHOLD HINT

ADD A BIT of salt when stewing rhubarb, apples or other fruit. Brings out the flavor...cuts down the amount of sugar required, too!

RECIPE

HEARTY VEGETABLE SOUP

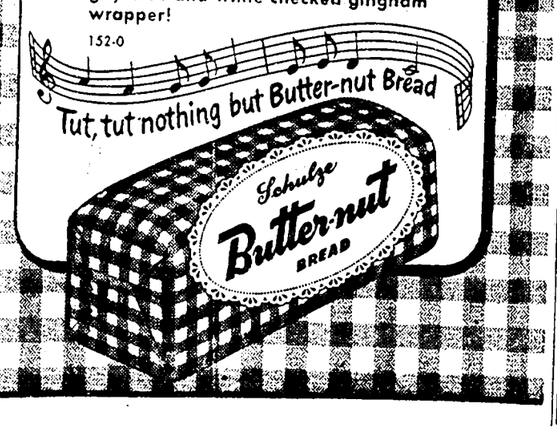

1½ c. grated carrots
1 green pepper, grated
1 onion, sliced
1 stalk celery
1 qt. ham stock
1 bay leaf
4 whole black peppercorns
4 whole cloves
2 Tbsp. butter or margarine
2 Tbsp. flour

Combine first five ingredients, add spices tied in bag. Simmer gently 15 mins., remove spice bag. Melt butter in double boiler, blend in flour gradually, add stock and vegetables, stirring constantly until thickened. Season to taste. Serve with croutons. Serves 4.

LIONS INTO LAMBS

TAKE THE edge from ravenous appetites with a nourishing snack of Butter-nut Bread and a favorite spread. Enriched Butter-nut Bread is always welcome at mealtime and snacktime...it's flavorful and extra satisfying. Look for Butter-nut in the gay blue and white checked gingham wrapper!

COLD WELCOME—New York City gives a cold reception to little Andrzes Wojtkowski, 18-month-old displaced person who arrived from Europe on the SS General McRae. Andrzes looks as if he would be happy to trade the ship's ice and slush for the warmer climate of his destination, Gallatin, Tenn.

Executions Called Humane

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—The City Animal Regulation Department has devised what it believes is the most humane method for destroying animals.

Richard L. Bonner, manager, said the system works on the principle that a reduction in air pressure causes a decrease in the amount of oxygen carried in the blood. Without oxygen, he said, there is first a loss of sensation and consciousness and finally the heart stops. The department already has a pressure chamber unit operating.

Bonner said the method stems from altitude tests given pilots. Aviators who underwent pressure chamber tests, he said, described the loss of consciousness when oxygen is reduced as painless.

Gables Win in Bremen

BREMEN, Germany—(AP)—Every once in a while the Germans show signs of rebelling against the bureaucracy that has plagued them since long before Adolf Hitler's days. That makes American occupation officials happy.

A case that encouraged the Americans was Bremen's "battle of the gables." The Bremen Board for Control of Building Affairs decided that new buildings in the business district should not have gabled roofs. A lively public discussion followed, with Bremen's architects, art experts and ordinary citizens protesting.

Carl Ronning, a coffee merchant, defied orders and built a gabled roof. Authorities ordered him to tear it down. That really stirred up public reaction. And the ban on gables was rescinded.

McCabe was admitted to the bar in 1923. He was an assistant state's attorney from 1926 to 1929. Then he taught school here for 20 years. After he retired from teaching, he decided to go back into the legal profession.

Mule Team is Make Believe

NORTH HOLLYWOOD, Calif., —(AP)—A. J. McKnight, 60, who handles horses and mules for movie studios, has always wanted to drive a 20-mule team. The closest he's come to this ambition was 30 years ago when he enviously watched a team clippety-clop across the wastes of Death Valley. A year ago he settled for the next best thing — make believe.

With clay and wood he settled down to making a scale model of a fully equipped team in action. Now McKnight has a replica authentic down to the last harness buckle.
